Labor Will Try Again

Federal Reserve Eases Light

Farmers and Wheat

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.

COL. LINDBERGH IS DISCOVERED, enjoying himself on a motorboat, and wearing goggles. It has amused him to "keep the reporters guessing."

Will Rogers celebrates his birthday at Beverly Hills, Cal., and is older than Lindbergh, in years only. He is much younger, generally speaking. His fame came gradually.

The German problem appears to be settled, actually definitely settled.

The Allies got a hundred billion less than they asked for at first.

Baldwin will resign as premier, and King George will ask Ramsay MacDonald to take the premiership and form a government.

And everything will go along as smoothly as ever.

That would not happen in this country.

For one thing, we have no Ramsay MacDonald, and our high finance has a great fear of labor and other bogeymen.

The federal reserve board has decided, so it's said, that American adults may be permitted to invest their own money in their own American securities, in their own way.

The 5 per cent discount rate is to be preserved indefinitely.

That is discouraging to the usurious gouging money lenders. But having had a taste of 15 and 20 per cent money, they may find some way to continue usury at the foundation of American business.

When farmers hear the word "wheat" they have conflicting emotions.

First came the special session, to save the farmer.

While they were preparing to save him wheat fell to 94 cents a bushel, lowest price since before the war.

Farmers had been hanging on in the hope of better prices ever since last fall. At last, with a new crop in sight, they were forced to sell. Buyers leaned back and let the price fall.

Why should a farmer get good prices for wheat.

Then our save-the-farmer politicians began to worry about the farmers' vote next time. It became evident that something would be done. AFTER the farmer had sold his wheat, as usual. A fund of $100,000,000 to be supplied by the Government and used to protect wheat prices was discussed, believed, and the price of wheat jumped violently.

Great excitement in Chicago's wheat pit; much delight and profit for speculators.

The farmer wonders what will happen next time he has wheat for sale.

With that proposed debenture scheme, or Government wheat bonus working, wheat bought here for 94 cents could be shipped abroad, sold at Europe's price, the exporter getting as bonus half the tariff on wheat. The middlemen, not farmers, would get that bonus.

It seems hard to help the farmer, even when you really want to help him.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors; Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and 21 others urge the people to "give prohibition an honest chance."

These good, solemn business men, in their touching appeal, say:

"There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law-abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime."

At least 100,000,000 people have been awake to that fact for some years. The bootlegger's list of customers is a complete Who's Who and Social Register.

A law that "respectability" defies proudly, and that gives hundreds of millions a year to organized crime, is something that business men and others may well take seriously.

Note one curious fact. The Government could diminish bootleg profits at least 60 per cent by making it a felony to buy liquor.

Respectability would be less proud of breaking the law if it meant jail.

Can it be the real enforcement of prohibition is not wanted? In burglary you punish the burglar and the man that buys stolen goods from him, knowing them to be stolen.

Why the tender treatment of those that buy illegal whiskey? More than half the politicians buy it and drink it. That is one explanation.

Yesterday was King George's birthday, and the world learns with pleasure that his health is better. He is a good man and a good king.

'SEE' LINDY AS YACHT VANISHES

New Bedford, June 4—Just before the cruising yacht Mouette, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's honeymoon craft, pulled out of Woods Hole harbor today, a tall, slim, blond-haired youth, believed to be the "Lone Eagle" himself, appeared on deck dressed in white duck trousers and blue sweater.

Through green silk curtains that were drawn completely across the plate glass windows of the deck cabin, was seen a silhouette figure that bore close resemblance to a young woman. It was believed to be that of Mrs. Lindbergh, formerly Miss Anne Morrow.

As a rowboat that had put out from the shore approached the "Mouette" and circled around her, the blonde young man ducked out of the cabin, ran to the stern and hoisted a naval pennant. He then ran to the bow and raised a smaller, pennant bearing an insignia of interlaced loops and knots.

Returning to the cabin he was

Swedish Fliers Hop Saturday for U. S.

Stockholm, June 4 (INS)—The Swedish aviators, Capt. Allen Ahrenberg and Lieut. Axel Floden, plan to start their transatlantic flight over the Greenland route at 6 a. m. Saturday, it was announced today.

Their Junkers hydroplane is in perfect condition and weather conditions are good, their flight is to prove that transatlantic mail service between Sweden and the United States, via Greenland, is feasible.

Kiley Takes Oath as Representative

Governor Allen today administered the oath of office to Representative-elect John J. Kiley of Cambridge, Democrat, of the second Middlesex district.

Mr. Kiley defeated former Representative Harold M. Bradbury in the recent special election held in Cambridge to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Representative Timothy D. Sullivan.

Temperance Plan No. 3 Urges Home Making of Cider and Light Wines

Following is the complete text of Plan No. 16,876, awarded the third prize of $2000, offered by William Randolph Hearst in the $25,000 prize contest for the best plan as a temperance substitute for prohibition.

By THOMAS W. THERKILDSEN

Executive Secretary, The Moderation League, New York City.

IN preparing a plan to establish temperance in the United States the first question to answer is: "Can such a plan be established without repealing the Eighteenth Amendment?"

A careful reading of the amendment shows that it prohibits only intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes. Mark well the words "intoxicating" and "beverage purposes."

With the above facts in mind I believe that temperance can be established in the United States by the adoption of the following plan:

FIRST—Repeal the present National Prohibition (Volstead) act.

SECOND—Enact a new law which shall be known as the National Temperance act, providing:

(A) For the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of alcoholic liquor for medicinal purposes, to be sold by licensed druggists only upon prescription by a licensed physician, without limitation as to the amount or kind of liquor which the doctor may prescribe.

At the present time doctors may prescribe only one pint of whiskey or one quart of wine in 10 days. If, in the doctor's judgment, a patient requires some other kind of liquor, or an additional quantity, it is necessary either for the doctor or the patient to break the law.

(B) For the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of cider and natural wines; that is, wines that result from the natural fermentation of fruit juices.

At the present time these wines may be legally made in the home, and the legality of their manufacture has been up-

FLEE TOWN IN PATH OF LAVA

Naples, Italy, June 4 (AP)—The eruption which burst from Mount Vesuvius yesterday became more serious today, and caused the evacuation late this afternoon of the town of Barre before a heavily increased flow of lava from the crater.

Latest dispatches said the lava was moving at the rate of 150 feet an hour and had increased in width to more than 70 feet. It was only 600 feet from the town of Barre and half a mile from the town of Terzigno late this afternoon. Panic had seized the population of neighboring towns.

Vineyards and woods near Terzigno were destroyed by the lava today.

Although an early official statement from the Vesuvian observatory declared the eruption would

Attorney-General to Act on Paper Grab

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The Senate transmitted to the Attorney-General today for "appropriate action," the report of the Postmaster-General showing the last statement of ownership filed by the publishers of the newspapers in which the International Paper & Power Company owns stock.

The resolution of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, proposing that the Postmaster General's report be sent to the justice department was adopted without debate on roll call.

The postoffice department report disclosed some of the newspapers in statements of ownership failed to show interests of the International Paper & Power Company. Officials of the power company told of their interests in 15 papers at a

RUM CREW SET BOAT ABLAZE

New London, Ct., June 4 (AP)—The United States destroyer Wilkes arrived here today with a fishing boat in tow and its crew of six prisoners aboard on charges of being rum-runners and of having attempted to burn the boat before it could be seized.

The seizure was made Sunday night. The Wilkes came across the fishing boat, the John M. Hathaway, some distance off shore.

The crew, according to the Wilkes' officers, set fire to their craft and took to their dories. The destroyer went alongside, sent a fire crew aboard to extinguish the blaze, and then picked up the crew.

The men were held aboard the destroyer in the harbor and their names were not available.

Captured Rum Boat Is Well Known in Boston

New Bedford, June 4 (INS)—Andrew D. Hathaway and Capt. Michael T. Smith, owners of the John M. Hathaway, captured as a rum runner, are prominent local citizens, and it was understood here that the fishing vessel was chartered ostensibly for a fishing voyage.

The John M. Hathaway is well known in the New York and Boston fish market.

Find Clothing in Lynn Pond

Lynn police, after receiving word that clothing of a boy of 10 or 12 years was found on the banks of Flash pond by Charles Burckes, brother of Chief of Police Thomas Burckes, searched that vicinity without finding any trace of the boy.

The garments found consisted of a pair of blue overalls, a pair of tan stockings, tan shoes and white garters. No boys are reported missing there, according to police.

Morphine Thief Given Six Months

Benjamin Miller of Washington st., South End, in municipal court today was sentenced to six months for the larceny of 133 grains of morphine from the Mondello Pharmacy, 279 Hanover st. Miller requested that he be sent to Deer Island and was threatened with a year's sentence, but talked himself out of the extra six months.

WHITNEYS FAIL OF DIVORCE

Concord, N. H., June 4—"Unfit to have custody of their children and neither party entitled to a divorce," is the scathing denunciation of the New Hampshire Supreme Court in the famous cross-suit Whitney divorce case, in a finding handed down today.

The finding settles the long-drawn-out marital battle of Harold C. Whitney and his wife, Frances Clarke Whitney. They had accused each other of heavy drinking, indiscretions and numerous other charges.

The case has attracted nation-wide attention, since the husband named Lawrence Higgins, attache at the American embassy in Mexico.

Meanwhile, the "real pawns" in the case—the smiling Pamella, 5, and chubby little Russell, 3—are with their mother.

These are the "two very good

BUSINESS MEN HELP IN FRAUD

Local postal inspectors have unearthed in Boston a traffic in "washed" used stamps amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars annually and involving employes of large business institutions.

"Washed" stamps, in the parlance of the postal department, are cancelled stamps from which the postmark has been chemically removed and which are then sold in bulk as new stamps at a substantial discount on their face value.

After an investigation of almost a year, Postal Inspectors J. E. A. Sullivan and J. W. Hunt have traced the conspirators of the scheme from the point of purchase of the used stamps here to the "washing" plant in Charleston, S. C., and back again to Boston to the place of resale as the genuine article.

Through the efforts of Hunt and Sullivan, a dozen "washers" of Boston stamps have been indicted in New York and William B. Hale, Boston "washer," convicted of that offense here two years ago, has

READING ACCUSED OF PRETENDING TO PROBE L. A. W. CORPORATION

DIST. ATTY. RUGG TOLD OF CRIME

Evidence that Arthur K. Reading, while attorney-general pretended to start an official investigation of the L. A. W. Acceptance Corporation, and then reversed his attitude, despite protests of lawyers, was given in his disbarment hearing in Supreme Court today.

It also was brought out that Reading told a conference of corporation officials that two district attorneys were threatening to take criminal action against the concern, but that he had blocked them off.

This occurred following a City club conference, at which a settlement was reached, and which resulted in Reading receiving a check for $2750, together with 50 shares of preferred and 225 shares of common stock.

Dist. Atty. Charles P. Rugg of Worcester County testified that Reading called him on the phone and told him of a big larceny in a Worcester corporation. The witness said the then attorney general asked how soon he could convene a grand jury.

Later Ryan & Harrington, Worcester lawyers, wrote him stating they represented certain stockholders of the L. A. W. and wanted to ascertain the financial condition of that company.

"It appears to us," read the letter which was introduced in evidence, "that the situation is one which demands immediate investigation by some state official and we suggest that you as district attorney of Worcester County conserve the remaining assets of this company for the protection of the innocent victims."

RIDICULED BY READING.

This letter, the witness said, was forwarded to Atty.-Gen. Reading who wrote in reply on Feb. 2:

"If I were in your place, I would tell Ryan there will be no official investigation by my office."

"In regard to his silly suggestion that you take steps to conserve the remaining assets of the L. A. W. Corporation I would suggest to him that his complaint is a matter in equity."

Another letter was read, in which Reading wrote Ryan ridiculing his suggestion that the company was in a bad financial way.

Reading was examined by the witness briefly regarding the latter's conversations with Pride, the public accountant who made an investigation armed with a letter from the attorney general.

Q.—When you wrote me as attorney general you knew I was representing the subsidiary association as counsel, did you not? A.—Yes.

By Mansfield: You mean you told him that.

Reading flushed and did not reply.

In redirect examination Rugg said no one told him about the City Club conference on Nov. 4 at which the differences were supposed to have been amicably adjusted.

JUDGE ASHER ON STAND

Judge Jacob Asher of the Worcester court was the next witness. He counsel for L. A. Wolfe, head of the L. A. W. corporation, and also for the United L. & W. of Worcester.

He said he talked with Reading on Nov. 11, 1927, at the attorney general's office with various members of the corporation present.

"I said: 'Good morning, Arthur. He said: 'Good morning, Judge. That's a fine piece of work you did on the Worcester corporation, Judge.' I says: 'Thank you, Arthur.'

"Then I says: 'What's this Pride investigation, Arthur?'

"Arthur says: 'I've been retained by various representatives of the subsidiary corporations to fix this thing up.' He says 'They hesitated to call me in as I was known as a buster. They were afraid I might take some action and the stockholders might suffer but they were relieved when I agreed it would be kept a civil matter and the stockholders protected.'

"Reading spoke of the differences between the organization and the subsidiaries and the desire of the latter to sever relations with the parent body. I suggested if an audit should show any money coming to them from the parent organization there was plenty to cover it.

SAID RUGG CALLED HIM.

"He told me that one of the subsidiary members was 'rarin' to go, but he finally persuaded him to allow Reading to see what could be done to adjust the differences.

"Reading said: 'Why, only the other day Charlie Rugg called me and said complaints had been made to him and that he was going to investigate. I told him that I had it under investigation.' Reading said another district attorney had called it to the attention of the attorney-general also. I called Reading into another room and we talked alone."

Dist. Atty. Rugge admitted under questioning by Atty. Frederick W. Mansfield, president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, who is prosecuting the disbarment proceedings, that his decision not to take action was influenced by the fact that the attorney-general had already investigated the L. A. W.

Q.—You saw Mr. Pride. The public accountant, did you not, in regard to the matter of the L. A. W.? A.—Yes, he came to my office some time after my first talk with Mr. Reading on the telephone.

The witness explained that Pride

COURT SETTLES VEXING CHILD LABOR ISSUE

Drawing attention to a decision by state Supreme Court relating to the status of a person illegally employed, John P. Meade of the state department of labor and industries today declared the decision settles one of the most perplexing problems ever before the department.

The court found against an insurance company which defended action brought by the father of Cecil J. Pierce of Hanover against the National Fireworks Company for the boy's death in an explosion.

The court found the company violated the law providing no person shall employ a minor under 15 in or about establishments where gunpowder, nitroglycerine, dynamite or other dangerous explosives are manufactured.

The insurance company contended, Meade said, that the workmen's compensation act did apply to minors illegally employed and that a parent of such child was not entitled to compensation.

The court found, Meade continued, that "as respects the rights of minors under the act we do not perceive any reason to differentiate between those who are lawfully employed and those employed as a consequence of the employer's illegal conduct."

gradually die away, the authorities considered the situation dangerous.

Prompt measures were taken. A trainload of soldiers was sent to Barre to superintendent the evacuation of the town.

Molten lava was pouring from the eruptive cone in a stream 100 feet wide at the rate of 10 feet a second, observers reported late in the afternoon.

The direction threatened by the increased lava flow is a rich agricultural area. It is famous for a number of excellent wines and the lava is destroying part of vineyards which stretch for miles and miles and on which the grapes are just forming.

represented himself as acting for the attorney general, and showed a letter with the emblem of the Commonwealth, attorney general's office, addressed "To whom it may concern," in which Reading explained Pride's work and asked anyone, who could, to furnish him information.

District Attorney Rugg said Pride told him he had found the Reading received a check for $2780, and said he criticized the attorney general "caustically" for accepting it.

Rugg denied there was any talk of immunity and said that what Gaskill talked about related only to whether Rugg contemplated any criminal action.

GROW RICH ASKS ALLEN IN STAMP FRAUDS 'L' BILL

again been arrested in the South Carolina city.

Office boys and shippers in business establishments sell the canceled stamps in bulk, according to the two postal sleuths, and generally have a contract with pseudo stamp collectors for the entire output of the firms by which they are employed.

The purchasing stamp "collectors" have a ready alibi, Sullivan and Hunt assert, to cover their huge business by pointing to the widespread legitimate traffic carried on by philatelists, for whom they invariably declare they are the Boston agents.

SOLD THROUGH "FENCES"

Once in the hands of the collectors, the canceled stamps are sold through "fences" in all sections of the United States to undergo the washing process, receive a new cent of gum, pass through an ironing machine and be packed in bundles for resale.

The investigation by the Boston postoffice sleuths disclosed that even executives of reputable firms in this city have not hesitated to purchase the "washed" stamps at a discount and charge their mailing or shipping departments the face value of the contraband.

Hunt and Sullivan, in the report of their investigation to Washington authorities, described the purchase of "washed" stamps by the president of a Boston firm at the rate of 50 cents on the dollar and his subsequent resale of them to the purchasing agent of his concern at their full face value.

Some idea of the large sums out of which the government is annually mulcted by this stamp scheme is revealed by the confession to Hunt and Sullivan of an employe of Hale, who declared he had re-gummed in a few weeks $3500 worth of "washed" specimens.

$1,000,000 A YEAR.

A stamp "collector" in New York with whom the two Boston inspectors came in contact in the course of their investigation, admitted he bought and sold canceled stamps to the tune of $1,000,000 a year.

Churches and benevolent institutions, according to Sullivan and Hunt, have been innocent participants in the fraudulent plot by their sole of cancelled stamps to "collectors" for funds to support missionary enterprises.

While no immediate arrests are expected here as the result of the activities of the inspectors, Chief Inspector Park D. Colvin expressed the belief that the traffic has been peremptorily halted in Boston and is of the opinion that the warnings served by Hunt and Sullivan on those involved will deter them from further participation in the fraud.

Free Woman Church Leader in Mexico

Mexico City, June 4 (AP)—President Portes Gil has ordered the release of Senora Concepcion Diaz de Bonilla, president-general of the Woman's Army for the Defense of Religion, who recently was sent to the Elias Marins prison colony with a number of other women accused of activities in favor of the religious insurgents.

The release of her son, Felix, also was ordered.

Frances J. Finneran, president of the Democratic Club of Massachusetts, in a letter scoring President, Caspar G. Bacon of the Senate, and Henry I. Harriman, "representative of the power trust," calls upon Governor Allen to support the Seltonstall-Twohig Elevated bill, which carries a referendum to the people.

"I am shocked at the action of President Gaspar Bacon of the Senate in refusing to allow the people to settle this question—one which Governor Fuller and the Legislature have wrestled with three or four years with no results," the Finneran letter to Governor Allen read.

"Senator Bacon should remember that in 1904 the then Governor John L. Bates also refused to allow the people to decide issues. He refused the referendum, and said the people did not have intelligence enough to vote on questions such as the Boston Elevated question, and, as a result, Bates suffered a catastrophic defeat at the polls, yet that same day the people of Massachusetts voted overwhelmingly for the Republican presidential candidate, Tgedoore Roosevelt.

"Regarding the so-called Bacon bill Senator Bacon appeared at a public hearing before the committee on metropolitan affairs and stated, in answer to a question of Representative Twohig, that he could not explain certain provisions of his bill because he did not write those sections; that they were written by Mr. Harriman, the power trust man.

SUPPORT SALTONSTALL

"What kind of a man is this president of the Massachusetts Senate who allows a bill to bear his name; who says to the people: Here is my bill, here is what I consider best to do, and then admits that he knew nothing about certain sections of it, and worse, that these sections were written by the representative of the power trust—Harriman?

"Support the Republican leader, Speaker Saltonstall, who advocates the Twohig amendment, and allow this bill to go to the people for decision.

"Failing the people in this vital measure will mean your ignominious defeat at the polls in 1930."

The Democratic caucus called by Senator Robert E. Bigney of South Boston on the El legislation was today called off when it was seen that the call was being generally ignored. The only members present in addition to Bigney, were Senators Michael Ward of Boston and Charles W. Faulkner of Pittsfield.

BATTLE UP IN HOUSE

As the House met today to take up the Elevated problem again, scant hope for any satisfactory solution at the present session was expressed by leaders on Beacon Hill.

After more than three hours of debate, the Senate, rejecting all but one or two minor amendments offered by the opposition, gave its final approval to the Bacon bill, which serves notice of the return of the road to private ownership in 1932 and sets up machinery for subsidizing the metropolitan districts credit for rapid transit extensions of what is intended to be a private corporation.

hailed by occupants of the rowboat. From the interior he responded, his voice through the cabin curtains sounding not unfriendly. In an imploring tone he said:

"Oh, won't you please rest loose?"

He repeated the request and the skiff cast away from the cruiser. Within three minutes the "Mouette" was under way and disappeared in the direction of Vineyard sound.

The discovery of the yacht, the culmination of a chase which began shortly after the wedding on May 26, occurred after hundreds of automobilists lined the banks of the Cape Cod canal from Buzzards Bay to Sandwich through most of the night, all set to greet the honeymooners with flashing headlights and honking horns.

All day yesterday a keen watch was kept along the coast from Long Island sound, after "Lindy" had been reported at Block Island, but he managed once more to escape the keen eyes of the searchers and make port here undetected.

The first report of the actual appearance of the blonde air king was received yesterday, when Capt. Louis Rounds, master of the notorthy Elizabeth Ann, plying between Bonington, Ct., and Block Island, said he saw a tall, light-haired young man, wearing dark sun glasses, attempting to make fast a motorboat at a Block Island dock single handed.

Rounds said his offered assistance was accepted and that Col. Lindbergh admitted his identity when questioned. He said "Lindy" took aboard fuel and water and put off in the direction of Montauk Point, after saying he was going to Boston to pick up a party of four.

Capt. Rounds said he did not see Mrs. Lindbergh, but the cabin curtains were closely drawn.

Then followed a hunt along the coast, centering in Boston harbor, but no trace of the Mouette could be found. Apparently the 36-foot double cabin motor yacht which the flying colonel purchased shortly before the wedding had vanished as mysteriously as the famed Flying Dutchman.

necessary for the King, sick abed, to bear the strain of a second interview today.

The events presaged a change in the British Government in accordance with parliamentary elections last Thursday, in which the Labor party of Mr. MacDonald supplanted the Conservatives of Premier Baldwin as the numerically strongest party in the House of Commons.

This is MacDonald's second such summons, the first having come just a little more than five years ago when after a coalition agreement with David Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party, he was giving a working majority in the House of Commons.

LEGAL SNAG IS BAR TO WAR ROMANCE

Cupid's fond dream of an immediate marriage today between a French girl immigrant in Boston and her soldier sweetheart whom she met in France ten years ago, during the war, was rudely interrupted by legal technicalities.

Marie J. Leveque arrived on the liner Republic today to wed her sweetheart, Charles Beale of Clinton, Me., who met her at the dock. They went directly to city hall marriage license bureau, hoping to obtain a certificate so that an appeal could then be made to waive the usual five-day period.

This was easier said than done. Everything went smoothly until that question about former marriages was read. The girl said she was still single.

"I think I'm a divorced man," said the ex-soldier.

"You think you are—don't you know for a fact?" asked Joseph A. Canalen, assistant registrar at the bureau.

"Well, you see," began the man, "while I was fighting for my country in France, a friend wrote me that my wife had secured her freedom from me. It was in some little town in Virginia—I can't even remember where."

The clerk asked for a certified copy of the divorce.

"I haven't got any," was the reply.

The clerk said he deeply regretted that the law required such certified copy, but another certificate could be issued.

"Oh, well," commented the veteran, "I just take the girl back home to Maine and marry her there."

"Oh, no," commented a social service worker who had charge of the girl immigrant, "you forget that she is an immigrant in our care. Your marriage will have to be here, or not at all."

Girl, 3 Men Held for Rum-Running

Montpelier, Vt., June 4—Dorothy Cusheon, Kenneth Sullivan, Joe Orfett and William Gordon, all of Waterbury, pleaded not guilty before United States Commr. H. C. Shurtleff to charges of possessing and transporting intoxicating liquor and were held in bonds of $1500 each for their appearance in United States District Court.

Army Honors Paid to Custer's 'Lost Scout'

Billings, Mont., June 4 (AP)—White-Man-Runs-Him rests today beside his comrades of the ill-fated Custer expedition in the National Cemetery on the Little Big Horn, overlooking the battlefield where, 53 years ago this month, an entire fighting unit of the United States Army was wiped out.

With military pomp and very great honor that is accorded one who has served his country in time of stress the body of the aged Indian scout, one of the Four Crow Indians who guided Gen. George A. Custer and the five troops of his immediate command from the Rosebud to the Little Big Horn on June 25, 187—, was buried at the battle field.

In nearby graves lie the bodies of Curley, Goes-Ahead and Hairy Moccasin, who, with Trumpeter Martin, were the last to see Custer alive. Curley remained with the command after the start of the battle and later escaped, but Goes-Ahead, Hairy Moccasin and White-Man-Runs-Him were ordered back to the packtrain in the rear at the beginning of the hostilities.

The grave of White-Man-Runs-Him is the 1666th at the battle field dedicated as a national cemetery some years ago.

WAR DEBTS FIGURES SETTLED

Paris, June 4 (AP)—A plenary session of the German, allied and American reparations experts was called late this afternoon.

Paris, June 4 (AP)—The last barrier to complete agreement by the experts committee on the reparations question was removed today, and the long outstanding problem of Europe's post-war life may be considered officially settled.

The Belgians this afternoon accepted proposals presented by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht looking toward solution of the controversial problem of the redemption of German marks left in Belgium after the war for which Belgium is demanding 37 annuities of 25,000,000 marks (about $6,000,000).

With the acceptance by the Belgians of the German proposal, approval of the experts' report embodying the reparations annuities suggested by Owen D. Young, chairman, now becomes unanimous and the historic report which must still be submitted to the governments concerned for ratification will be signed either on Friday or Saturday.

DOBBINS DENIES WIFE ATTACK CHARGE

Charged with assault and battery on his pretty 26-year-old wife, Robert M. Dobbins, well known real estate operator of Beacon st., chairman, now declared innocent and was released pending hearing before Judge Charles T. Carr in Domestic Relations Court today.

Probation Officer James Knight informed the court the case had just been brought to his attention and that he was continuing so that he might acquaint himself with the circumstances.

Judge Carr continued the hearing to June 7, over protest of Mrs. Dobbins, who appeared in court with her 2-year-old baby in her arms. She had requested that the cases proceed today because care of her child made it inconvenient for her to appear in court any more than absolutely necessary.

According to police the assault is alleged to have taken place last Saturday night at his home. The police say they received a call from neighbors who heard screams. On investigation they went to the Dobbins home and arrested Dobbins in charge of drunkenness. He was released the next morning. Mrs. Dobbins is his second wife.

WHITNEY COUPLE BRANDED UNFIT

reasons" for this bitter court battle, this expensive litigation. Both parents have indicated that had there been no children, neither would have submitted to the searchlight of divorce publicity.

At the session of a lower court, neither husband nor wife was granted a divorce. The mother was given temporary custody of the children and the father was ordered to pay for their support.

Now that the Supreme Court has called both parents unfit to have custody, the future course is somewhat uncertain.

The two once-prominent members of Boston society had figured in a sensational cross-suit in the March term last year of the Belknap Superior Court before Justice Matthews. The testimony covered about 500 pages.

The husband tried to have the lower court verdict refusing him a divorce set aside by the Supreme Court.

In that court the husband told how he cared little for what happened to himself, so long as the children were properly safeguarded.

Whitney told how he had taught his children to pray.

MRS. DRAYTON, DIVORCED 1 HOUR, WEDS IN NEWPORT

EX-FOLLIES GIRL SUES

HEIRESS TAKES SOCIETY BY SURPRISE

Newport, R. I., June 4—Taking Newport's "400" by surprise and waiting only an hour after her divorce to her second husband had become final, Mrs. Catherine Livingston Hamersley Hinckley Drayton, Southern beauty and heiress, today became the bride of C. Whitney Carpenter, society broker.

The wedding was performed at 9:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church by the Rev. A. Murray Porter, in the presence of a few intimate friends. The couple dashed to a waiting automobile and left for a honeymoon in New York, where they will reside.

The couple last night arrived unheralded at the summer home, Eagle's Nest, of F. Frazier Jelke.

The bride is known as one of the wealthiest women in the country, and is heiress to half of the Hamersley millions. This is her third venture into matrimony, and Carpenter's second.

The first husband was Samuel Hinckley, Harvard '05, and New York broker. Husband number two was Henry Coleman Drayton, multi-millionaire clubman.

"He once fell asleep and snored in a New York theatre, and drank liquor excessively," were charges Mrs. Drayton made in applying for divorce.

This Southern beauty was once known as "Cinderella Kitty."

Carpenter's first wife was Annie B. Tailer, who had also been married once before. Her first union was with Sidney T. Smith, and one of their sons, Earl T. Smith, married Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt.

30 AND 60-DAY BRIDES WIN THEIR FREEDOM

DIVORCE MILL GRINDS OUT 6 OTHERS

Charges of cruelty, which included swearing and pinching, won a divorce for Mrs. Ethel Walch of Brookline, whose honeymoon with Frank W. Walch lasted only a month. Judge Joseph R. McCoole awarded the decree, which was one of several issued in the Norfolk Probate Court.

Charging cruelty and abuse, Mrs. Marjorie M. Brown of Wellesley won her freedom and $150 monthly alimony from Harry E. Brown of Easton, Pa. She was given the custody of a daughter.

Anna Shurdut, a bride of six months, was given a divorce for desertion. Samuel Shurdut of Brookline agreeing to pay her a settlement of $1000.

This sum will be held in trust until the divorce becomes absolute in six months. The bride will then resume her maiden name of Anna Lepartz.

LOVED "OTHER WOMAN"

Mrs. Marion F. Hale of Braintree won a divorce from Roy E. Hale, whom she charged with unfaithfulness.

Witnesses quoted the husband as saying that he and the "other woman" were "living in real love and harmony."

After four years of married life, Thomas W. Lundy of Brookline took his wife, Margaret, to the home of her sister and then deserted her on the doorstep—so she charged in court.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. French of Braintree was granted a divorce from Bert W. French of Braintree for desertion after two months of marriage.

HIT WITH CARPET BEATER.

Charged with throwing a pitcher of cream from the kitchen into the dining room and with other cruelties, Augustus Meyer of Walpole, lost to his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Meyer, in acting as his own counsel in her divorce action. They were married 28 years ago.

"He used a steel carpet beater to hit me with," she charged.

James W. Johnson, carpenter, of Wellesley, won an uncontested divorce from Anna B. Johnson, his wife of 38 years, for desertion. The husband complained that his wife and children made a lot of noise so that he couldn't sleep.

"The kids took my bedroom away from me, and I had to sleep in an office," he complained. He once told how he built a special bunga low but that his wife refused to live there.

SEES WOMEN IN CONTROL IN 25 YEARS

(Copyright, 1929, by International News Service)

Washington, June 4—Feminine control of the House in 25 years!

American women, keenly alive to their political responsibilities and vitally interested in their government, will move steadily forward in public affairs and in 25 years will either have more than 50 per cent of the membership of the House of Representatives—or very close to it—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican Congresswoman from Illinois, predicted today.

They then would be in position to control the purse strings of the Nation and dictate its legislative course.

The prediction comes just after the British elections, in which women candidates for parliament scored tremendous gains, and the commencement of a fight in Pennsylvania to elect Mrs. John J. Casey to her late husband's seat in the House.

Mrs. McCormick, who is the only member of the House "feminine bloc" to represent an entire state—also being a Congresswoman-at-large—is not more enthusiastic than other Congresswomen over woman's future. She is more optimistic than Mrs. Florence Kahn, California Congresswoman, who believes that the present "feminine bloc" of eight will not exceed 25 in the next 10 or 20 years.

Mrs. McCormick declines to agree with the frequent prediction that women's lack of knowledge of finance handicaps her in a government which deals in millions and billions. Women handle the purse strings of the home and know the value of money, she says.

AGED BANKER'S 'DARLING' SUES FOR $100,000

New York, June 4—Mrs. Vera Leightner Brody, Follies beauty at the age of 16, has introduced into the mellowing archives of the Supreme Court a primrose story of "an old man's darling."

She filed a transcript of her testimony before trial in her $100,000 suit against Jefferson W. Seligman, aged and wealthy banker.

According to her story, he kissed her an hour after they first met. He became her guardian. Then she found herself living in an apartment at the rate of $1000 a month.

They became engaged, but when the subject of marriage was mentioned Seligman told her he was too old for her and advised her to find happiness with a younger man, she said.

He even selected the younger man in Henry Clewes, Jr., grandson of the late Wall Street broker.

Vera accepted a trip to Europe and a promise of $100,000 in installments under an agreement that all would be forgotten.

She is married now, but she still wants the $100,000.

That is a brief outline of her testimony as she gave it under examination by her attorney, T. John McKee, and cross-examination by Seligman's attorney, Carruthers Ewing.

Seligman denies he ever asked her to marry him or that there was anything in their relations to warrant such an expectation. His gifts to her he characterizes as "charity."

Endurance Fliers Get Military Titles

Austin, Tex., June 4 (AP)—Reg L. Robbins and James Kelley, who recently established a new world's endurance flight record of 172 hours, have been rewarded with military titles. The two commercial airmen, one a former railroad mechanics and the other a Texas cowpuncher, were appointed lieutenant colonels on the personal staff of Governor Dan Moody.

248 With Firm Over 25 Years Celebrate

Thompsonville, Ct., June 4 (AP)—Charles S. Morrison and Robert D. Smith celebrate 60 years of service with the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Company tonight, along with 42 others who have been with the company from 40 to 50 years and 204 others, who have been with the company 25 years or more.

Puts Wife and Sons to Sleep, Kills Them

Vienna, June 4 (AP)—Dr. Hugo Symon, a high official of the government savings bank, gave sleeping draughts to his young wife, his son, 11, and his baby boy, six months, and then shot them and himself dead. Unsuccessful speculations were said to have motivated his act.

Report 'Lost' Plane Ready for New Trip

Cordova, Alaska, June 4—The amphibian plane, Alaskan, reported lost in the Cape Hinchinbrook area, was located in Cordova harbor taking on fuel for a flight to Seattle. Residents of this city were unable to account for previous rumors at Seward, that the ship was missing.

Building Permits in Waltham Slump

Building operations in Waltham for the month of May slumped badly in volume not only in comparison with the previous month but also with the corresponding month of last year. A total of 55 permits were issued during the past month for structures having an estimated aggregate valuation of $138,725. This amount is about $100,000 less than the total for April.

2 KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO IN N. H.

Berlin, N. H., June 4—Mrs. Claie Westman, 60, and her son, Clarence E. Westman 35, single, of 73 Corbin st., Cascade, were killed at Lessard's crossing, two miles from here, when a Montreal express of the Canadian National struck the automobile truck in which they were riding.

Youth Must Give Up Girl Or Lose Share in Estate

Pittsburgh, June 4—If Alfred Theodore Ball marries the girl with whom he is keeping company, he will lose his share in the estate of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Aston McCune, she provides in her will probated.

Mrs. McCune leaves a $5500 estate in trust to her two daughters, two-thirds to Mrs. Kathcrine B. Southwick and one-third to Mrs. Harriet W. Ball.

At their death, two-thirds goes to one grandson, John R. Ball, and the remainder to Alfred, with this provision, "if he should marry Ella Stone, to whom he is at present paying attention, he is to receive nothing."

Mrs. McCune was at one time a resident of Sewickley, but moved to Arlington, a suburb of Boston, many years ago. After she and her two daughters moved East, the daughters were married in Massachusetts. The will was filed in Pittsburgh inasmuch as Mrs. McCune had recently disposed of some property here through the local trust company.

SLOW CREW CAUSE OF DEATHS

London, June 4 (INS)—Belief that heavy loss of life in the foundering of the liner Vestris off the Virginia coast last November was due to delay by the crew was contained in an affidavit submitted today at the Board of Trade inquiry into this disaster.

"My considered opinion is that every person on board could have been saved had things not been delayed until the last moment," said the affidavit, which was made by Charles William Johnstone, a first-class passenger. It added: "Seven lifeboats on the starboard side could easily have been launched within an hour."

Wellesley Alumna Died Natural Death

Detroit, June 4 — Mary Baylis Lee, Wellesley College graduate and former teacher, died a natural death, and injuries she may probably were received in a fall during an epileptic fit, Coroner John E. Burgess said.

Burgess had caused a second autopsy to be made when examination of the body disclosed a broken neck, a crushed chest and a bruised nose.

The girl's body was found in a hotel room here, headquarters for a Cleveland book selling crew which she had joined recently.

Joan and Doug, Jr., Are Wed Quietly

New York, June 4—Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., screen star, and Lucille Fay Le Suer, known on the screen as Joan Crawford, were married by the Rev. Edward F. Leonard at St. Malachi's Roman Catholic Church.

The ceremony took place in the rectory of the church, which is known as the "Actors' Church," shortly after the couple obtained a marriage license at the city hall where Fairbanks said they would not be married until some time in the fall.

Iron Workers Quit Till Pay Is $13 Day

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—Striking structural iron workers voted unanimously early today to remain away from work until their demand for $13 a day is accepted by builders. Their vote repudiated an agreement reached by their international officers meeting with contractors. Approximately 2500 strikers attended the meeting. Many of them shouted for $14 a day.

BAD PORK WAS SERVED ON DAY OFF, SAYS CHEF

Sour pork or canned fruit, not gravy prepared by Chef Philip Streechon, caused the illness of 24 employes at Long Island hospital in the night of April 22, according to argument by Atty. John H. O'Neil today at the close of Shtreechon's hearing for reinstatement before Institutions Commissioner William S. Kinney. The commissioner took the case under advisement.

O'Neill referred to cold roast pork which Streechon had testified was prepared by another cook on Streechon's day off, and which was served at supper on the Sunday preceding Tuesday, April. Some of this pork was "sour," the deposed chef asserted.

The hearing came to a close after testimony of 14 employes at the island who came up by early morning boat on summons by Streechon's counsel. Their evidence substantially was to refute the charge that Streechon was temperamentally unfit for his position.

Among witnesses was Charles T. J. Pettiti, deck hand on the boat. Asked his opinion of the food in general on the Island Pettiti said:

"I can't say much for the food. I don't know whether it is right, but I know that it doesn't agree with me. I have lost weight continually ever since I have been on the Island."

Beatrice Martell, an attendant, said she had some of the gravy served with meat loaf at supper, April 23, and was made sick. She did not eat the meat. Mrs. Gertrude Pettiti, wife of the deckhand, and an attendant, testified she had some of the meat and was not sick.

BODY OF SLAIN MAN FOUND IN R. I. SHACK

Cumberland, R. I., June 4—With marks on his throat, indicating he had been strangled, the body of Michael Kouzer, 40, believed to be from New Bedford, was found early today in a lonely shack off the Mendon rd., near the Cistercian monastery here.

Police are seeking Walter Jagielo, said to have occupied the shack, who notified Motorcycle Officer James Bradley of Kouzer's death, and then disappeared.

Officer Bradley investigated and found Kouzer's body, which apparently had lain in the shack for some hours. When the police sought Jagielo for questioning, he could not be found.

It was learned that Jagielo informed Michael Karsulovitch, a neighbor, that Kouzer was dead last night, but the Kersuloviten family paid no attention to the story.

Kouzer, who is said to have a wife in New Bedford, has been staying at the shack with Jagielo for some time. Jagielo is said to be separated from his wife, who lives in Lonsdale, R. I.

Electric Worker Killed by Shock

Robert Corthell, 40, of Hersey st., Hingham, was electrocuted at Scituate when he came in contact with a high tension wire. The shock knocked him from the pole on which he was working and he was rushed to the Scituate fire headquarters where he died.

He was an employe of the Abington and Rockland Electric Light & Power Company, and leaves a widow and seven children.

Youths Off on Arctic Trip in Small Sail Boat

Providence, June 4—Two adventure-bound lads and their Nova Scotia pilot are under way on a week's voyage to Halifax, N. S., in the miniature sailing craft, Direction.

Lucian Carey, Jr., of New York, son of the short-story writer; Ted Crofitt, Westport, Conn., and Art Murphy, Baddeck, N. S., the pilot, will meet the owner of the 35-foot craft at Halifax. Arthur Allen, student of naval architecture at M. I. T., and Rockwell Kent, artist.

The party then will start an extended cruise north, reaching a climax with an attempt to cross 800 miles of Arctic sea, littered with icebergs from Battle Harbor, Labrador, to Disco Island, Greenland.

Kent plans to paint landscapes and other native scenes in Greenland. The adventurers will be back the middle of September.

Their vessel is modelled after a Norwegian lifesaving boat, the craft that guards fishermen in the North sea. Her beam is 11 feet; she has a six-foot draft and is equipped with khaki sails.

"Pretty near as heavily rigged as the Bowdoin," commented Lieut. Commander MacMillan, after looking over the little boat.

GET 'RICH QUICK GIRL'; WORKED GAME 5 YEARS

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 4 (AP)—A "get-rich-quick" scheme involving half a million dollars was laid today at the door of Miss Irma Bitzinger, 39, a former bank employe. Her attorneys indicated she would plead guilty to the grand larceny charge which resulted from it.

Miss Bitzinger began by borrowing $100 from a friend, detectives related, saying she would invest the money in bonds to earn a profit of $50 in 30 days. Before that time was up they said she obtained $200 from a second friend, using $150 of it to pay the first debt. This so pleased the first friend that she asked to have the entire amount reinvested. From that point the scheme grew in surprising proportions, the detectives declared. They said her victims numbered some 200 persons.

Miss Bitzinger declared no one except herself knew her business was a swindle. She started it about five years ago, and was discharged from the bank three years ago.

2 Braintree Police Win Promotions

Edward Cahill and Everett Dukett, veteran patrolmen of Braintree, became sergeants today by order of the selectmen. Cahill was assigned to day duty and Dukett was made relief sergeant. Four reserve officers were appointed as regular patrolmen. They were James Burns, John Illingsworth, John Clay and Henry A. Cahoon.

Once Headed Elks

Fall River, June 4—Edward W. Brown, 59, past exalted ruler and former secretary of Fall River Lodge of Elks and at one time prominent in local political circles, is dead at his residence, 140 Stafford rd.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Carrie N. Brown.

IT'S A SMALL CITY, BUT IT CERTAINLY MAKES ITSELF HEARD.

By CARL MORRISON

In Everett, the "city of industrial opportunity," there are two picturesque characters beloved by their citizens as "the grand old man" and "the grand young man" of Everett.

The grand old man is Columbus Corey, 85 years old, Everett's oldest citizen.

The grand young man is James A. Roche, aged 32, mayor of Everett, who only six years ago was working with a pick and shovel.

Corey is an assessor who holds office by special act of the Legislature for the remainder of his life. This is in recognition of a half century of service.

Corey is a descendant of Priscilla and John Alden of "speak-for-yourself, John" fame.

When elected a year and a half ago, Roche was hailed as the "boy mayor." His victory against the regular political machine was outstanding in the history of local politics.

SELF-MADE MAN

Roche is a self-made man, who did not spoil the job. He is business-like, but never a "high-hat." His personal following is due to his cordiality, square-dealing and sympathy for the man who works for a living.

Mayor Roche is pushing a program of better streets and sidewalks, and a general building up of the city. Under his direction Everett has become the best lighted city in New England. New industries are springing up.

Columbus Corey began life in a house on Corey st. which later became the Episcopal parish house. His father was a sea captain, and the street was named after him.

Corey was one of the pioneers in obtaining "freedom" from Malden. He signed the charter, and was secretary of the joint committee which settled debts and property values between the two towns. He was Everett's first town auditor, and later selectman and then assessor. He was chairman of the board for several terms.

Being what he terms a "wicked Democrat," Corey was appointed postmaster for four years under the Cleveland administration. At the close of his term, he again became chairman of the assessors, holding this until 1921.

"General" Corey, as he is fondly called, has never seen a "movie," nor does he care to attend one. He uses an automobile only occasionally. He keeps fit by hiking to work. His use of tobacco has been confined to just one cigaret in 95 years.

LONG IN HARNESS

City Clerk Frank T. Pettengill has served under every mayoralty administration since the community became a city in 1893. He started in as city messenger 36 years ago and eventually was promoted to his present position.

This clerk was the 12th child born in Everett under the new form of government, which began in 1870 as a town separated from Malden.

The city official quoted a few statistics of interest on Everett. The population is about 43,000, and this is jammed into one of the smallest city areas in New England—about four miles square. The total valuation is about $45,000,000.

Everyone knows and likes "Terry" McSweeny, antique dealer and unofficially the "first citizen" of Everett. Terry was born in Ireland 66 years ago, but at the age of two years he came to Massachusetts with his parents.

Terry is one of the beloved town characters. He drives around in what he proudly terms "the world's oldest Ford." In his antique shop are many valuable relics jammed in corners and on rafters.

Terry pointed out what is the oldest rum distillery in New England. This is on the site of the famous old spring, whose water was sold in Boston at a cent a glass. The water was noted for its medicinal qualities.

The establishment has a federal license to manufacture rum, using the mineral water and molasses. Of course, no one in Everett has access to the liquor except on doctor's orders.

Terry says this factory has the biggest elevator in the world—100 feet long and capable of carrying 75 barrels of rum.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Everett has a fire chief who has been in the harness nearly all his life, and is the third man of his family group to hold the chief's office.

Chief Philip E. Ham, benevolent boss of 103 firemen, is the son of a fire fighter. His father, Philip Ham, was a member of the old hand-tub force of Charlestown.

Chief Ham was in a hand company at the age of 18 and has been on the force since, except for a period when he went to New Hampshire for his health.

In 1629, the territory that is now Everett, was called by explorers "an uncouth wilderness." A few years later, in about 1634, William Sargent—styled in history as the "Godly Christian"—was a first settler.

At the end of the 18th century is recorded the death of Capt. Isaac Smith, the "wealthiest man" in Everett. He left $20,000, but like Washington's famous silver dollar, that went a long way in those days.

Incidentally, Smith was taken from a Boston almshouse when a boy and fought his way up the ladder.

Before becoming a town, the section was known as South Malden and was called the "stillest place on earth." Another nickname was the East.

FILMS ADD TO HOSPITAL FIRE PERIL; SAVE 17

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—The Chicago General Hospital was swept by fire at 1 a. m. today, and although 37 patients, several doctors and nurses were in the building as the flames and smoke mounted to the fourth floor, all escaped unhurt.

Some were carried down ladders by firemen. Fire department ambulances removed the patients to other hospitals.

The fire, which did $25,000 damage, started in the laundry room and was confined to one side of the building, which is divided by a fire wall.

Chief Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan, having in mind the recent Cleveland hospital fire, gave his first thought to keeping the flames from X-ray films which caused such heavy casualties at Cleveland.

Corrigan said he would start an investigation into the apparently careless manner in which the X-ray films were left in a jumbled heap in a room dangerously close to the flames.

"If the flames had reached the film, we would have had a disaster similar to that in Cleveland," he said.

Dr. Edward C. Meyer, house physician, said a man had come to the hospital Saturday with an offer to buy the old X-ray films "The films were taken from the vaults in various parts of the hospital and placed in the room where they were found pending the man's return," Dr. Meyer said.

Newsboy Draws Picture of Lindy

Victor A. Sindoni, 12, of Rockland st., Lynn, and a pupil in the Whitting school, where his talent for art is rated high, recently made a sketch of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and sent it to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow.

Victor Sindoni

Today, Victor received a letter of appreciation from Miss Virginia Kocsis, private secretary to Ambassador Morrow, mailed from the U. S. embassy in Mexico.

The letter states that the ambassador "appreciated very much your thoughtfulness in sending him the picture, and I am sure Col. Lindbergh will enjoy having it. It is a fine picture and you should be very proud of your talent."

Victor is a Boston Evening American newsboy and was one of the first boys in Lynn to join the Boston American Lindbergh Club. He is also a member of the Burrough's Newsboys Foundation, which has been a source of encouragement to the boy in his artistic aspirations.

Vacation School to Open on July 5

The Watertown vacation church school will open its fifth season on July 5 and will close on July 31. A demonstration program will be presented on July 30.

Melvin V. Walden of Watertown, supervisor of practical arts in Medford schools, will be director. Other members of the staff will include Mrs. Henry Johnson, Miss Arline Poole, Ira L. Chappell, all of Watertown, and Mrs. Bertram Allen, formerly of Watertown.

Senator Watson Is Honored by Women

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The tenth anniversary of the Senate's approval of the woman suffrage amendment was observed today by the National Woman's party. Recalling that Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, was chairman of the woman suffrage committee of the Senate at the time, the organization selected him as the principal speaker for the ceremony.

Dr. Ames Elected Johns Hopkins Head

Baltimore, June 3 (AP)—Dr. Joseph S. Ames, chairman of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, long connected with Johns Hopkins University, today was named by the trustees of that institution as president to succeed Dr. D. Frank J. Goodnow, resigned. Dr. Goodnow becomes president emeritus.

SOCIETY ALL SET FOR 7TH MILLWOOD HUNT AT WAVENEY FARM

Reginald Bird Will Again Be Host to All Devotees of Horse Events at His Spacious Framingham Center Estate

NOT ALONE THE SPORT-LOVING PORTION OF SOCIETY BUT a great company of those who always enjoy the hospitality for which Reginald Bird has long been famous will turn motors toward Framingham Center next Friday for the seventh annual Millwood Hunt horse show at Waveney Farm. For this particular event the exalted ones fare forth in their prettiest, for there's emphasis on the sartorial display, even in the ring. For instance, there's the Waveney Farm cup, coveted by all owners of hunters' teams, which is to be won only in full hunt costume of the smartest design. Yet, there's an atmosphere of country informality at Waveney Farm that makes a horse show there an opportunity not to be neglected by the throng that loves a friendly crowd.

A RIPPLE OF EXCITEMENT ANIMATES THE BRIGHT-EYED DEBS who compete in the saddle classes since the word went forth that Prof. Richard B. Adams, famous German color artist, is remaining over to sketch many of the colorful scenes at this show. The artist is the donor of a painting of the Millwood hounds for the new popular hunters' class, which must be ridden either by the owner or a member of the family. Louis K. Liggett's hunt teams from Tower Hill Farm, Elmer Jared Bliss, H. Hollon Crowell, and Myopia, Norfolk, Dedham, Jacobs Hill and Millwood will all have their colors represented for the Waveney and Millwood Hunt cups.

SWELLING THE RECORD ATTENDANCE APPLYING FOR parking space will be Mrs. Manning Emory, Jr., Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Jr., Mrs. Sidney Williams, Mrs. Homer Loring, Mrs. S. H. Littlefield, Mrs. William Dexter. Others are Miss Betty Choate, Hugh Ashcroft, Mrs. William B. Long, Miss Dorothy Neyhart, Mrs. Thomas F. Lindsay, Miss Sally Sprague, Mrs. John B. Paine, Miss Elizabeth Clark and Mrs. Gardiner Fiske. Still other motors will bring Miss Amy Peabody, Mrs. Richard Danielson, Mrs. Richard M. Saltonstall, Leverett Saltonstall, Mrs. Horace W. Cristy, F. Harold Tolman, John R. Macomber, Dr. Frederick Lund and Dr. Frederick L. Emerson.

ONE OF THE ABSORBING TOPICS OF CONVERSATION IN this assembly between events is sure to be that of boxes for the big races at the Country Club in Brookline, on the 15th. Especially as a waiting list for boxes is already announced by R. Nason Hamlin. I hear that Augustus F. Goodwin, newly elected president of the Eastern Horse Club, is to have the choice place in box 2, next to that of Esyard Tuckerman, Jr., who does the steward honors. Michael MacWhite, Irish Free State minister, will be his guest for the races. To Mr. Goodwin goes credit for reviving the fine old New England racing sport and largely through his efforts the present membership of the club has risen to 750 men and women from all walks of life. This club always has a welcome for all interested in racing. John B. Macomber has box 3. Debutantes will be intrigued by the occupants of box 39, where eight eligible bachelors will hold forth as the guests of Augustus Hemenway, Jr., of Milton.

ONE OF THE IMPORTANT SOCIAL EVENTS DURING THE races will be the large dinner party given June 15th by Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames at the Hotel Somerset for the ladies riding at 11 o'clock that morning. This is the class sponsored by Mrs. George Saltonstall West, Miss Dorothy Neyhart, Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Jr., and Bayard Tuckerman, Jr. Miss Mary Elizabeth Altemus of Philadelphia is bringing her horses to Belmont Park for this event. Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Dilton of New York, the William L. Hirsts and George Brook of Philadelphia, Mrs. Prince McKinney of Cleveland and Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark of Long Island have horses entered in the big races. The Augustus Goodwin house at Hamilton will be crowded with visitors throughout the two days and the Goodwin dinner for owners at the Country Club on the 15th will be a brilliant gathering of the cream of the sporting world. Mrs. Charles Weld gives her annual luncheon for the same coterie that noon and Mrs. George S. West entertains with luncheon on the 17th.

NO DATE HAS BEEN SET FOR THE WEDDING OF MISS DOROTHY TALCOTT, daughter of former Senator and Mrs. C. Dennison Talcott of Talcottville, Ct., whose engagement to Bruce Hilton Beal of Brookline was announced at a tea at the Talcott summer home in New London yesterday. Likewise, no date is yet decided upon for the nuptials of Miss Sally Wambolt and David Gierasch of Brookline, but this popular girl has volunteered to devote two weeks of her vacation to training in the Children's Island Sanatorium. She leaves with Miss Constance Creighton, Miss Rosamond Holton and Miss Marion Duane on the 13th. The last two named are about to make their formal bows to society and are of the company of some 15 or so debs who will devote time to this pet charity of the summer society colony at the shore. Miss Wambolt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Wambolt, are moving into summer quarters at Crow Point, Hingham, next week.

ONE OF THE PRETTY GESTURES PRECEDING THE NUPTIALS of Miss Eleanor R. Brown of Springfield and Reynolds Clark of Brookline on Saturday took the form of a breakfast for about 20 of the bride-elect's friends at the country home of Miss Sally Tate today. On Thursday this popular Junior League bride-elect is to be entertained, with the Springfield girls who will be in her bridal entourage, at a large bridge luncheon given by Miss Patricia Caffee at the Longmeadow Country Club. On Friday evening the entire bridal party is being dined by Miss Mary Wesson before a large ball given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wesson at the Old Colony Club, Springfield.

A MID ALL THE POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE ATTENDANT upon brides from the houses of social importance, Miss Katherine Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson Steele, Jr., today becomes the bride of Antonio Ponvert, Jr., at the Church of the Resurrection, in one of the fashionable weddings of New York society. Mrs. Frederick S. Moseley, Jr., who was Miss Jane Brady, is one of the bride's attendants. Mrs. Moseley is a sister-in-law of Miss Helen Moseley, prominent in the Vincent Club and Junior League. Courtlandt Gross of Boston and Tudor Simpkins, formerly of this city, are among the 10 ushers at the wedding. Miss Mary A. Steele, a sister of the bride, is the flower girl. A very large reception is being held at the home of the bride's parents at 103 East 80th st. following the ceremony.

THERE'S PLEASANT ANTICIPATION IN THE HOMES OF MANY of the Boston high and mighty, who may any day find an invitation in their mail for the rumored housewarming tea and musicale at Mount Hope Farm, near Williamstown, where Mr. and Mrs. E. Parmlee Prentice have just moved into their 70-room mahsion. This edifice of brick and marble, in Georgian design, has been under construction for five years on one of the foothills of Greylock mountain. An artisan worked a year and a half upon a single marble mantel in it. One of the largest and costliest organs in any private home in the country is in the music room. The place is reached by a winding road two miles long, through acres of beautiful lawns and gardens. Mrs. Prentice is the daughter of John D. Rockefeller, who may spend part of the summer at this villa, recently pronounced "perfect" by his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mrs. Rockefeller, on a visit there.

THOSE BUDS WHO WERE BIDDEN TO THE COMING-OUT dance to be given by Mr. and Mrs. John B. Paine for their daughter, Miss Louise Paine, on the 15th at her Weston home, are today changing their plans to a formal tea on October 19. This change was occasioned by Miss Paine's decision to remain in Paris for another month of study before sailing for home. Her set will gather for a dance in her honor next June, but this June the dance has been changed for the friends of her elder sisters, Misses Carol and Julia. And a house dance at this place is something to look forward to.

SEEING THE ANNUAL HISTORIC BOAT RACES BETWEEN Harvard and Yale has become a part of well regulated existence in many of Boston's fashionable homes, and these devoted ones have already insured places among the thousands that will flock to New London on June 21 by reserving hotel accommodations. The Hotel Griswold will be headquarters for a large Boston contingent, including Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Richard DeB. Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Amory, Mr. and Mrs. William Bayne, 3d, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Butler, Francis L. Higginson, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Hampden Robb, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Clark of Cambridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Swain. Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Auchincloss (Rosamond Saltonstall) of New York will also be there.

EVERY LINER LEAVING FOR FOREIGN SHORES THESE DAYS carries some member of Boston society, vacation-bound to other lands. The Misses Ida and Marion Newcomb have just departed for Europe, the Maderias and Egypt; Mr. Arthur W. Elwell of Worcester and Rowley is sailing soon to join Mrs. Elwell and their daughter, Miss Millicent Elwell, at the Swiss chalet engaged by them for the next two months; Mrs. L. Carteret Fenno and Miss Florence Fenno have engaged passage for England this month, and to this country also go Mr. and Mrs. A. Cecil Butler of Marlborough st., Mrs. Samuel D. Warren and Misses Helen and Anne Warren, Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Crockett. Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hodges and Mrs. Albert F. Bigelow are summering abroad also. Miss Leslie Grinnell, daughter of the Frank W. Grinnells, is to have seven weeks of travel in England and France before her debut in the fall.

LATER THIS MONTH MR. AND MRS. ELIOT WADSWORTH OF Marlborough st. and the shore colony visit England and Switzerland, and Mr. and Mrs. Sigourney Thayer take ship from New York in the near future. Mrs. Samuel K. Lothrop and her children joined her mother, Mrs. Pinkie Warren, in Paris the past week. Besides the bevy of buds returning from finishing schools abroad this month society will welcome home Miss Juliet Greene, who went abroad as the guest of the Herbert Windelers and their daughter, Miss Evelyn, last April. Mrs. Harris Livermore and the charming Mrs. Robert H. Stevenson are expected back early this month.

CAPRICIOUS WEATHER WILL NOT AFFECT THE ANNUAL Chestnut Hill spring garden show, staged under tents on the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Lapham, 514 Warren st., Brookline, tomorrow. This is the garden event that attracts thousands every year for the exhibits of fine horticultural products developed on neighboring estates. It is open to the public without charge of any kind. George Bramwell Baker is chairman of the committee in charge. The Heath st. entrance is nearest for the show.

Betty Alden

Mrs. Clarke T. Baldwin — Mrs. Robert Almy

Society is keenly interested in the Millwood Hunt at Waveney Farm, Framingham Center, the "dressiest" of them all, where many of her fairest daughters ride. Mrs. Clarke T. Baldwin and Mrs. Robert Almy will be among the enthusiastic gallery watching competition for the Waveney Farm and the Millwood Hunt cups.

When Reginald Bird throws wide the gates of his Waveney Farm at Framingham Center, next Friday and Saturday, for the 7th annual Millwood Hunt Horse Show, his daughter, Miss Betty Bird, will be hostess at an al fresco luncheon for 100 exhibitors, who have entered 600 show horses for the events.

HALTS WEDDING OF MABELLE GILMAN

Paris, June 4 (AP)—Friends of Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey, divorced wife of William E. Corey, Pittsburgh steel magnate, insisted today she and Don Luis Bourbon, Prince of Orleans, would be married at San Remo near the end of June.

They assigned as a reason for their not having done so sooner the request of Italian authorities for additional documents, including certified copies of Mrs. Corey's divorce decree and other papers necessary to comply with Italian law.

London, June 4 (AP)—The London Daily Express today said the wedding of Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey and Prince Luis of Orleans had been postponed indefinitely.

The Infanta Eulalia, mother of the prince, who is a cousin of the King of Spain, was quoted as saying the reason for the postponement is Mrs. Corey's unwillingness to take up the simple life Prince Luis has found to his liking.

"He wants her to go to him. 'I don't know which will give way, but I hope not my son."

Hub Carrier Gets $36,760 Tax Back

Washington, June 4—The internal revenue bureau today announced the refund of $36,760 to the Seaboard Transportation Co. of Boston on account of overpayment of income and profit taxes in 1918. Overpayment resulted from excess of a tax assessed on return and in excess of tax liability as revised after audit of return.

Settle Law Suit of Worcester Church

Worcester, June 4—The suit of the Second Adventist Christian Church of this city against the city of Worcester for the taking of church property in connection with the widening of Chandler st., has been settled. It was learned unofficially that the church will be given $48,000.

LAYS COOLIDGE NAVY DEFEAT TO CHURCHES

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Foreign directed propaganda is blamed by Capt. Dudley W. Knox, U. S. N., retired, for keeping the American people from knowing the true situation at the Washington arms conference and for defeating the nation's 1927 naval building program.

Writing in the June issue of "United States Naval Institute Proceedings," Capt. Knox describes the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America as "probably the most powerful Quaker propaganda organ in the country," and declares it was the principal influence in the defeat of the Coolidge naval building program.

"The actual control of its current activities," he said, "is vested in a small group, a large proportion being appointees of its president, in whom the real power thus lies to speak and act for the vast organization.

"According to Who's Who in America, this powerful person (Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, since retired) is an Englishman, by birth and education, who came to this country when about 31."

That this organization's propaganda, he said, was the principal influence in the defeat of the Coolidge naval building program following the breakdown of the 1927 naval conference, is the boast of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and the considered opinion of all members of Congress."

He added that President Coolidge himself had "emphatically" expressed the same opinion.

"Its annual expenditures," he said, "have been estimated to be in excess of half a million dollars, of which a considerable part comes from an endowment reported by the press to have been made in 1926 by Sir Henry Lunn, a wealthy Englishman."

Declaring that propaganda was issued by the British publicity staff at the Washington Arms Conference, Capt. Knox listed impressions which he said the American public "was very successfully led firmly to believe," and added that "the American public was indoctrinated strongly with these and other similar fallacious beliefs, all favorable to the British."

Black in Persia

Reuter Abbas, Persia, June 4 (AP)—Van Leer Black, Baltimore publisher and aviation enthusiast, arrived here from England. Black is on a flight from England to Japan.

13 at Bar Where "Spirits" Used to Flow in Young's

A new bar has been erected in the old cafe of Young's Hotel and it was lined two deep today at its initial opening.

Thirteen men breasted the rail, but not with a desire for forbidden thirst - quenching beverages. They were, ironically enough, called to plead to an indictment charging conspiracy to smuggle the liquids which, in the past, flowed freely in the room in which they stood.

SHERLOCK WILL SLEUTH NO MORE

London, June 4 — Sherlock Holmes is dead—absolutely, irrevocably dead. Never again will poor Watson murmur his bewilderment.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of one of the most famous characters in detective fiction, is authority for this statement. In an interview with International News Service on his seventieth birthday, Sir Arthur declared the world must expect no further Sherlock

Consul's Daughter to Wed in China

Amoy, Fukien, China, June 4 (AP)—The American consul, John Putnam, of Hood River, Oregon, today announced the engagement of his daughter, Doanda Risley Putnam, to Lieut-Comdr. Charles Wheeler, U. S. N., of the Asiatic fleet. The wedding will take place at Amoy June 20. Miss Putnam was graduated from Penn Hall, Chambersburg, Pa., in 1928. The Putnams formerly lived in Long Branch, N. J.

Evangeline Booth Nearly Well Again

Hartsdale, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Dr. Walter Clark Tilden announced today that the slight concussion of the brain suffered by Comdr. Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army had entirely disappeared. Miss Booth was injured when thrown against the top of her automobile 10 days ago. It is expected she will be up in two or three days.

CONGRESS WILL RUSH BILLS TO GET VACATION

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Congress today appeared to be assured of at least two months, if not three.

House rules were in effect to limit debate and speed up action on amendments to the Senate bill providing for the 1930 census and reapportionment of the House membership among the states, one of the measures President Hoover wants to be enacted before a recess begins.

The Senate finance committee was called upon to complete its program looking to the fulfillment of another of his pre-vacation requirements, assurance of enactment of tariff legislation before the regular session begins in December. After adopting plans designed to assure completion of its own job of rewriting the House bill by mid-August, it put off until today selection of dates for a Senate vote on the bill and for final action on the conference adjustment report to follow.

Although administration leaders were almost certain that they could not obtain unanimous consent to fix dates for those votes in the fall, they were confident that they could muster the two-thirds majority needed to put such an agreement into effect and remove that stumbling block to a recess.

They expect farm relief legislation, the other task which President Hoover desires to have completed prior to a vacation, to be ready for the Chief Executive's signature next week.

Scientist on Way to Hub for Medical Care

Seattle, June 4 (AP)—His researches in Chinese Turkestan interrupted by illness, Dr. Sven Anders Hedin, former president of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences and internationally known for his scientific writings, was here today en route to Boston for medical treatment. The scientist hopes to rejoin his expedition in three months. He said the group had unearthed parts of 20 dinosaur specimens and one dinosaur egg.

Back Bay Woman Is Injured by Auto

Miss Alice Clark, 40, of Marlborough st., Back Bay, is in City hospital suffering from cuts and bruises suffered when an automobile knocked her down as she was crossing Exeter st., near Commonwealth ave. The car was operated by Bernard Konovitz of Deckard st., Roxbury.

U. S. Auto Exports Set Record at $252,134,000

Washington, June 4 (INS)—Automobile exports for the first five months of 1929 were valued at $254,134,000, an all-time record, the Department of Commerce announced today.

Foreign sales exceeded the same period of last year by $9,000,000. Canada was the leading market for passenger cars, while Brazil replaced Australia as the best customer for trucks.

MISS MAE CANTY NAMED ASSESSOR

Mayor Nichols today informed Councillor Charles G. Keene that he had appointed Miss Mae Frances Canty of 12 Central st., West Roxbury, to the position of second assistant assessor.

Miss Canty is the oldest of the 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Canty. Her father is secretary to President Gaspar G. Bacon of the Massachusetts Senate. She was formerly connected with the assessing department and the traffic survey department as temporary clerk.

Mrs. Hoover Back in Washington

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Mrs. Hoover returned to Washington after a four-day trip which took her to Radcliffe College at Cambridge, Mass., and Swarthmore College, near Philadelphia.

SOCIETY WOMEN ANTI-DRYS ARE DENOUNCED

Detroit, June 4 (AP)—With only approval by the general convention of the Christian Church standing in the way of union of the National Council of the Congregational Churches and the Christian body, the biennial meeting of the Congregationalists stood ready to adjourn today.

The Christian Church body is expected to vote for the merger plan at the meeting in Piqua, O., in October and the joint body will meet in 1931, probably at Hartford, Ct., the united body will be composed of about 6500 churches and more than 1,000,000 members.

Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulough of Evanston, Ill., chairman of the prohibition and law enforcement committees of the Woman's City Club of Chicago, speaking before the Congregationalists last night denounced prohibition reform movements by Eastern society women.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Princess Elizabeth Gravely Watches Retiring Premier

Windsor, Eng., June 4 (AP)—While King George and Premier Baldwin were making history inside Windsor Castle today, the King's granddaughter, 3-year-old Princess Elizabeth, pedalled a tricycle in the court outside.

When Mr. Baldwin was driven through St. George's gate. He saw the Princess, hands clasped behind her, viewing him gravely.

He tipped his bowler and bowed, pipe in hand and with a mien as grave as hers. She seemed to sense something out of the ordinary. She pedalled back and forth along the path outside the King's room and was still there when Baldwin left an hour and a half later.

$6,000,000 for Hospital

Medfa, Pa., June 4 (AP)—Most of a $6,000,000 estate will be devoted to the founding of a hospital after the death of his widow under the will of Thomas M. Fitzgerald, department store owner.

HOOVER WILL PUSH CRUISER BUILDING

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The American cruiser building program will be carried forward by President Hoover as laid down by Congress and provision for new ships will be made in the next federal budget.

The administration recognizes that work toward construction of 15 additional 10,000-ton fighting ships is made mandatory under the program until an agreement for reduction of sea armaments is reached by the leading nations and ratified by the Senate, and the President has no intention of attempting to modify or abandon that policy.

Jones, McDuffee & Stratton to Move to Boylston Street

Moving to Boylston Street in company with other fashionable shops marks another forward step in the history of Jones, McDuffee & Stratton. This concern, which for over a century has dealt in china and glass, will occupy the six-story building at 367 Boylston Street, between Arlington and Berkeley Streets.

Extensive alterations will be made to enhance the display of fine china, crystal and lamps and add to shopping convenience. The wholesale and hotel china departments will also be housed in the new location. A new six-story storage warehouse in South Boston will be leased. In the meantime, a removal sale is going on at the present Franklin Street store to lessen, as much as possible, the burden of moving fragile stocks.

The history of the Jones, McDuffee business reflects the general growth of Boston. In 1810 the business was established on Fish Street on the old water front, a site that is now a good part of a mile inland. Such a location was doubtless chosen for its convenience in unloading china from the ships' holds. At that time Boston boasted about 40,000 inhabitants. Town meetings were held in Faneuil Hall. And two coaches a day ran to Cambridge, Roxbury and Brookline!

In 1826 the business was moved to South Market Street. There it remained for 48 years in the center of Boston's wholesale district. On moving to the corner of Franklin and Federal Streets, however, it was decided to stress the retail side of the business as well. Since that time the company has followed the general trend of retail trade. First a short move "uptown" to 33 Franklin Street—and now "away uptown" to 367 Boylston.

In the course of 119 years, Jones, McDuffee & Stratton has naturally witnessed the rise and decline of many a fashion in china and glass. It has seen "bone plates" and sundry side dishes put to rout by up-to-date ideas of reducing dish-washing to the minimum. It has seen the hospitable soup tureen of the comfortably-padded nineties give way to the bouillon cups of the present era of carefully counted calories. And perhaps there is no more telling sign of the mercurial modern age than the tendency to choose different patterns in china for each course—as contrasted with the staidly matching sets once thought necessary.

But no matter how fashions in table-settings change, the beauty of fine china is timeless. Just as museums honor early bits of Wedgwood and Spode—and ceramic examples of ancient Chinese dynasties are considered priceless—so will future generations cherish the finer products of present-day potteries. China and glass of good quality, moreover, are less susceptible to breakage and chipping than inferior grades. So to brides contemplating their first housekeeping dishes cannot be emphasized too strongly the fact that IT PAYS TO BUY GOOD CHINA.

New Mello-glo powder takes its place among the SUNTANS

If it's the Riviera—or Revere—this Summer, you simply must be tanned. If Nature does the tinting, Mello-glo SUNTAN will put on the finishing touches in just the shade for you, with that soft, peachy bloom that defies shiny noses and forcheads. If you are doing your own sun tanning—making it wholly a work of art—Mello-glo SUNTAN mixed with a little water rivals Nature's own. STAYS ON, too, and may be used on arms and legs as effectively. While if you freckle—O joy; Mello-glo will conceal the fact. Made by the same French process that has made Mello-glo powder so famous. Has the same fine texture—the same purity of color. $1 in the stunning gold colored box.

CHEAPER LIGHT RATE URGED AT CONVENTION

recent trade commission hearing.

The resolution also requests the Attorney-General to advise what legislation, if any, was necessary to make "completely effective" the law requiring newspapers to show their ownership.

Reforms Proposed at Light Convention

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4—That the public is becoming interested in obtaining lowest possible rates for electric light service was stressed here today by ex-Justice William J. Ransom of New York in an address at the 52d convention and exhibition of the National Electric Light Association.

The former justice said: "There are signs of a growing public consciousness as to electric rates, their forms and their economic consequences as limitations on the service which electrical energy may render."

The speaker said that "it is befitting that in this representative association of the industry an effort shall be made to perceive what the public has a right to expect as to the rate which it pays."

J. F. Owens, vice-president of the Oklahoma Gas & Electric Co., chairman of the public relations national section of the association, urged the delegates to adopt four reforms in their attitude toward the public.

These were:

1—Creation of measures designed to bring about appointment in each state of a representative of the power industry who will pass on all proposed measures of co-operation between schools and the power industry.

2—The discontinuance of information bureaus which have been in charge of distribution of all news relating to the power industry.

3—More efficient co-operation within the organization to assure sound development of relations with educational institutions, free from legitimate criticism.

4—Encouragement of measures which will lead to the pronouncement by "educational administrators of national prominence and standing of guiding principles to control future co-operative activities involving educational institutions."

The proposed reforms were part of a program proposed by Owens to meet the criticism leveled at the power industry during the past year.

At the opening session the 10,000 delegates paid tribute to Thomas A. Edison, who 50 years ago invented the first practical incandescent light.

Committee Votes for Radio Investigation

Washington, June 4 (U.P.)—A newer power investigation and inquiry to learn if the radio industry is controlled by one or more allied giant organizations, forcing the small manufacturers and dealers against the wall was voted today by the Senate interstate commerce committee.

The committee approved the resolution of Senator Couzens (R., Mich.) which would give it the authority while considering his resolution to bring all systems of communication under one bureau to investigate the question of an alleged radio monopoly.

JAIL FOR MAN IN REVERE RUM RAID

Charged with assaulting an officer who was endeavoring to seize a half pint of alleged liquor during a raid on a store, Patrick Flanagan of Calumet st., Revere, was found guilty in Chelsea court today and fined $25.

Flanagan was also sentenced to 60 days in the House of Correction and fined $50 on charges of keeping and exposing liquor for sale and making an illegal sale. He appealed and was released in his own recognizance.

Sergt. Starkey testified he visited Flanagan's store on Ocean ave. and found Flanagan with a bottle. During his attempt to seize the bottle, the sergeant was knocked at the floor, he testified.

SON FIGHTS WILL OF ROTHWELL

Contest of the will of James E. Rothwell of Brookline, who left an estate of $400,000, opened in Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham today before Judge Alonzo Weed and jury.

Edmund A. Rothwell contested his father was unduly influenced by Clara E. Rothwell, Edmund's stepmother, and by Helen S. Byrne, a practitioner, who attended the testator before he died.

New York, June 4—Countess Folke Bernadotte, the former Estelle R. Manville, daughter of H. Edward Manville, was rushed to Fifth Avenue Hospital last night, where an operation for acute appendicitis was performed. Her father, warned by radio from the Swedish-American liner Kungsholm,

FLAG WINNERS END VISIT TO HUB

The 36 Regional Flag Champions in the Flag Contest conducted by the United States Flag Association of Washington, D. C., who have held sway in Boston during the past two days, arrived today in Albany N. Y., on the third lap of their two-weeks' pilgrimage to the patriotic shrines of America.

From the time they arrived in Boston on Sunday morning until their departure, they have had 48 hours of inspiring patriotic education.

His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell, one of the 13 founders of the United States Flag Association and one of the foremost leaders of the Flag movement, received the boys and girls and their chaperons who were headed by Col. James A. Moss, president-general of the United States Flag Association, and E. M. Cheney, supervisor of promotion for the Hearst Newspapers, who conducted the publicity during the recent Flag Contest.

Boston and nearby cities and towns, rich in historic scenes, offered to those boys and girls from the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic a reminder of what their forefathers sacrificed that they might be benefited.

As a fitting climax to their two days' visit, the management of the New B. F. Keith Theater was host to the boys and girls last night. The management set aside a section of the orchestra for their use and made their three hours previous to their departure one to be long remembered by the visiting boys and girls and their chaperons.

An act which was received with great applause was that of Carter De Haven, with his son Carter De Haven, Jr., and daughter Marjorie, who presented an artistic offering of songs and dances.

Mel Klee, "The Prince of Wails," entertained, and his witticisms and songs were received with profound applause. A splendid bill of stars surrounded the headliners.

Following the arrival of the visiting party in Boston on Sunday morning, an all-day trip to Plymouth on the South Shore and visits to the various historical monuments were made.

The patriotic reception given to the boys and girls in Faneuil Hall by Mayor Nichols in behalf of the city was another event that will long be remembered.

IS TRAPPED BY FIRE; LEAPS TO SAFETY

Trapped by smoke and flames on the top floor of the two-and-one-half frame dwelling at 71 Magazine st., following an explosion in a closet, William Gobron, an occupant, fought his way to the eaves in the back, lowered himself to an adjoining roof and jumped to the sidewalk, escaping injury.

The fire evidently started from a spark igniting material in a closet and the flames, fanned by a draft, developed heat which blew out the closet door. Crackling of the flames attracted the attention of Gobron, who was in a nearby room, and he was forced to make a hurried departure to the rear roof.

Ladderman William McGrath saved a number of X-Ray films belonging to Dr. Harry Fishman, who occupies the first and second floors.

Body of Drowned Man Identified

Newport, Vt., June 4—The body of the man found floating in Lake Memphremagog at Newport yesterday has been identified as Thomas Mitchell of Keith-by-Creek, British Columbia, 74 years of age. The man left there Oct. 11 to visit his daughter, Mrs. Jane Facney in Bath, N. H.

Three Families Are Driven Out by Fire

Three families were temporarily driven from their homes early today when fire, believed to have been caused by sparks from a chimney, broke out on the roof of a three-story brick dwelling house at 70 Albany st., Roxbury. One alarm was sounded. Damage was not heavy and the occupants of the building were able to return to their flats.

586 AWARDED THEIR DEGREES AT TECH

Symphony Hall was filled to capacity today for the commencement exercises of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a distinguished gathering saw President Samuel W. Stratton award degrees to 586 candidates, among them six young women.

Degrees awarded included 386 bachelors' and 200 advanced degrees. The women candidates were Misses Mary A. E. Crawford of Chicago, Doris G. Joy of Jamaica Estates, N. Y., Elizabeth W. McClellan of Andover and Eleanor G. Pepper of New York city, all bachelors of science in architecture; also Miss Ruth Eyre Davis of Boston and Miss Constance Lee Sharp of Alhambra, bachelors in chemistry.

The class of 1929 is the 63d to be graduated from Technology. Hundreds were unable to gain admittance to the big hall. Cheers greeted the graduates as the academic procession, led by President Stratton and Chief Marshal Alexander Macomber, entered at 11 o'clock.

PROMINENT MEN IN LINE.

Following Dr. Stratton were Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, commencement orator, and his escort, Dr. James L. Tryon. Then came the Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, Col. Frank L. Locke, Maj.-Gen. Preston Brown, commander of the First Corps Area; Col. Harold E. Cloke of the Department of Military Science; Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the Boston Navy Yard; Prof. J. E. Jack, head of the Department of Naval Architecture and Marine Engineering; Comdr. Earl F. Enright, U. S. N.; Prof. Charles F. Taylor, Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge and Prof. Joseph W. Barker of the Department of Electrical Engineering.

Members of the corporation of the institute, with Walter Humphreys as marshal, were next in line. Following the custom of other years the fifty-year class, men who were graduated in 1879, was given a place of honor in the procession, with Prof. Samuel C. Prescott acting as marshal.

The class members who marched were John W. Cabot of Newton, Charles L. Fellows of Cambridge, Alice V. Garratt of Holliston, Charles S. Gooding of Boston, Frederick B. Knapp of Duxbury, Sullivan A. Sargent of Brookline, Frank L. Smith of Boston, Frank G. Stanglel of Melrose and Arthur E. Wilson of Auburndale.

Prof. George E. Russell headed the faculty procession. The candidates for degrees were led by C. Brigham Allen, president of the class of 1929. Senior class marshals were Mahlon R. Boyer of Pine Grove, Pa.; Earl W. Glenn of Fall River, and E. A. Bianchi of Wellesley. Prof. J. J. Eames was marshal of the graduates and Prof. Ralph G. Hudson, marshal of ushers and guests.

The exercises opened with an invocation by the Rev. Samuel A. Eliot, after which Hon. Stratton introduced Senator Bingham. His subject was "The Future of Aviation with Particular Reference to the Needs of the Immediate Future."

Following the commencement address, Maj.-Gen. Preston Brown gave a short address and awarded commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps to 99 members of the graduating class.

Traveling fellowships awarded in recognition of high scholastic attainments were bestowed on the following: Wilmer L. Barrow of Cambridge, Joseph D. Murphy of Kansas City, Mo.; Hunter House of Toledo, O.; Arthur F. Turner of Detroit, Mich.

Graduate students appointed fellows for the forthcoming year were Lincoln B. Barker of Canisteo, N. Y.; George W. Rigby of Salem, Ore.; Reginald Wakeman of Weymouth; Truman S. Gray of Austin, Tex., and Prescott D. Crout of Milwaukee, Wis.

ROTCH PRIZE AWARDS.

The Rotch prizes in architecture, awarded annually to seniors with best general records were awarded to James G. Carr of Batavia, N. Y.; Oswald V. Karas of Schenectady, N. Y., and Special Students Ralph A. Jeffers of Elkton, Md., and Leroy J. White of Wilmington, Del.

The Sweetser fellowships, open to honor students in electrical engineering physics, were won by Fred O. Urban of Warrensburg, Mo., Samuel L. Levine of Salem and Nathan Rosen of Chelsea.

The Guggenheim fellowships, for honor students in meteorology, were won by Horace R. Byers of Berkeley, Cal., and Chaim L. Pekeris of Alytus, Lithuania.

The Crane fellowship in automotive engineering went to George L. Williams of Remington, Ind., and the Sloan Fellowship to Otto E. Wolff of New York city. John W. Sibert, Jr., of Augusta, Ga., was awarded the Horowitz scholarship in the department of building construction.

After awarding the degrees, Dr. Stratton addressed the graduating class and the exercises were closed with a formal announcement from Chief Marshal Macomber. Members of the graduating class were entertained at a luncheon by Dr. Stratton at his home on Charles river drive.

Sues "Affinity"

Dolores L. Salazer, film actress, who is suing Ferdinand P. Earle for $180,000 balm. He will fight case.

EARLE REPLIES TO DOLORES LOVE SUIT

Los Angeles, June 4 (AP)—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, internationally known artist, has filed an answer to Dolores Salazar's $180,000 breach of promise suit. He said he is a resident of Paris, and therefore not under the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles courts.

Earle, who is known as "Affinity Earle" because of previous similar court actions, denied he promised to marry the dancer or to give her a large sum of money.

Miss Salazar charged Earle took her to France and abandoned her there and that he wrote her passionate love letters. She filed attachments on Earle's Hollywood property.

ZEPP WILL FLY ARCTIC IN 1930

Los Angeles, Cal., June 4 (INS)—That the Graf Zeppelin will make a flight to the North Pole next year, was revealed here today by Ernest W. Sawyer, executive assistant to Secretary of Interior Wilbur. A mooring mast is to be erected at Fairbanks, Alaska, which will be the base.

The International Society for the Exploration of the Arctic Regions has contracted for the use of the dirigible and Dr. Friedjof Nansen is to be chief of the scientific personnel.

The Hamburg-American booking office announced today that the next flight of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin to the United States has been set for June 20.

FINDS $25,000 IN GEMS IN THE MUD

New York, June 4 (INS)—Tons of muddy earth near Moline, Ill., was transported to New York and sifted for lost diamonds from a crashed airmail plane and today $25,000 worth of gems had been recovered.

The airmail plane crashed ablaze into the swamp on March 22, scattering a packet of 132 black diamonds, worth $30,000, into the muck. Pilot Kanuit parachuted to safety.

P. S. Ayres, adjuster for Appleton & Co., which had insured the package, had a gambler's hunch. Tons of the muck was scooped up and sifted with the desired result.

150 Leave Hub for Saving Bank Parley

About 150 members of the Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts will leave the North Station at 5 o'clock tonight on an 11-car special train for Saranac Lake, N. Y., to attend the four-day convention of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. The party will be headed by Rep. Harry P. Gifford of Salem, president of the association.

Allen Signs $600,000 'Circle' Highway Bill

Governor Allen today signed the $600,000 bill calling for the laying out, construction and improvement of certain ways as part of the so-called circumferential highway in Malden, Braintree, Weymouth and Hingham.

HOOVER KEEPS CLOSE TAB ON PUBLIC VIEW

Washington, June 4 (AP)—President Hoover is keeping a vigilant watch on the trend of public sentiment on the great questions of government as it is reflected in the press of all sections of the Nation.

Late each day, there is placed before him his own specially prepared and private newspaper, consisting of clippings mounted upon sheets of foolscap loosely bound together with the red tape that adorns, literally, so many of Washington's public documents.

FROM 35 PAPERS.

Essentially, the President's paper is a compilation of news dispatches and editorial opinion gleaned from the columns of more than 35 daily papers. To it have been added the services of two specially selected clipping bureaus.

If his busy schedule permits, Mr. Hoover makes a careful study of the clippings before leaving his office, although he sometimes takes them to the White House proper and goes over them there a little later.

WATCHES REACTION

President Hoover is most interested at present in the reaction of the press to two of the great domestic problems of the day, tariff revision and farm relief. Numerous journals from the agricultural northwest have been added to the list of papers usually received at the White House so that the President may have a thorough knowledge of the attitude of the press of the section vitally interested in these topics.

For more than ten years the task of preparing the journal has been entrusted to John McCabe, a veteran of the White House clerical force. He finds it a job that occupies his entire time and the part time services of an assistant.

She's Songbird

One of the leading parts of the Boston American's open-air production of "Aida," at Braves Field, June 27, will be taken by Madame Elizabeth Hoeppel.

"AIDA" OFFERS 5000 KIDS A TREAT

Great interest has been aroused throughout Greater Boston by the announcement in the Boston Evening American that 5000 children will be the guests of the newspaper in the gala presentation of the famous opera "Aida" at Braves Field, on Thursday evening, June 27th.

For the first time in many years Boston music lovers will have an opportunity of witnessing this glorious music treat at popular prices, in the open air on a summer night. The cast will include distinguished artists, a large orchestra, and chorus, ballets, and staged on a very elaborate scale.

Children of the public schools of Greater Boston can receive seats for this event by writing a letter to the Aida Festival Editor, addressed to Boston Evening American on the "Value of Music." This letter not to exceed 100 words.

There will probably be an audience of 30,000 to hear and see the opera. Special arrangements have been made for the guests of the Boston Evening American to have choice seat location.

At his headquarters at Hotel Kenmore, Mr. Frank, director of the opera festival, has received many letters of commendation for the great cultural treat the children will receive by arrangement with the Boston Evening American. Children send in your letters now.

Arrest Thirty in Paris Mail Strike

Paris, June 4 (AP)—Striking letter carriers and mail-sorters today attempted to throw an automobile truck loaded with city mail into the River Seine. Thirty were arrested. Paris is without mail service. The postmen had voted a 24-hour sympathetic strike against a month's suspension of 200 of their fellow-workers, who went on strike Friday against salary reductions for uniforms and the like.

KILL HEAD OF 'CRISTEROS'

Mexico City, June 4 (AP)—Gen. Gorozteta, supreme chieftain of the "Cristeros," whose battle cry is "Long Live Christ King," has been killed and the hard fighting insurgent army, minus its leader, today faced complete extinction.

An announcement at Chapultepec Castle said Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, commanding the federal army operating against the Cristeros, expected to complete pacification of the troubled Jalisco district by June 15.

Dry Lagoon Turns Geyser

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, June 4 (AP)—A lagoon near the city of Yoro, dry for years, is filling with boiling water. Logs thrown on uncovered portions of the bed of Laguna Brava have been burned. A cloud of smoke hovers over it.

See Parents as 'Torch Setting Youth Aflame'

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—Wayward parenthood was blamed for the capriciousness of "flaming youth" in most of the responses to a questionnaire distributed by the "Diocese of Chicago," official publication of the Episcopal Church, the magazine announced today.

Not that youth was not rebuked for its "flaming"; it was, but its parents were accused of applying the torch.

Characteristic answers included:

"The present age is slightly more insane in many respects, especially in the way mature people act in regard to young people. Parents of today flatter their children, slobber over them and think they are endowed to lead their elders."—Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, warden of St. Stephen's College, Columbia University.

"I cannot see that present-day youth is any more frivolous or irresponsible than the youth of my own day."—Rev. F. H. Bill, head master of the Kent School, Kent, Conn.

"There is bound to be some recoil from the child's observation of adults' violation of prohibition laws, motor speed and lack of interest in religion."—Miss Florence Wells of Grafton, Fond Du Lac, Wis.

Girl, 4, Playing With Match, Dies

Pittsfield, June 4 (AP)—Barbara Van Orman, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester V. Van Orman of Tyringham, died at a hospital here today of burns. The child lighted a match, setting fire to her clothing while alone in an automobile near her home.

PRIEST TO GIVE BACCALAUREATE

Rev. Patrick J. Lydon, '04, of St. Joseph's Church, East Pepperell, will preach the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Boston College Sunday evening in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Harrison ave. and East Concord st., South End.

Fr. Lydon, formerly of St. Mary's Church, East Cambridge, is one of the college's most distinguished alumni. He served for some time as an army chaplain and went to the border in 1916. The baccalaureate exercises will start at 7:30. Following the sermon there will be solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Commencement week begins tomorrow, when the seniors and their parents will attend the Red Sox-White Sox game at Fenway Park as guests of Bob Quinn. A vocational retreat will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Newport Girl by Gilbert Rogers

A SIX-DAY STORY

Thrilling Six-Day Novel by a Noted Author

The Boston Evening American is a paper pledged to preserve peace among the citizens of this nation and promote the peace of the world.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

A HOME PAPER FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK

BOSTON, TUESDAY, JUNE 4, 1929

SECOND SECTION

DOCTOR BATTLING SMALLPOX GETS MALADY

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR:

Felicity Strake, nineteen, the Newport Girl, born to riches, is the pawn in a scheming mother's plan to marry her to one of seven very rich men. She refuses a proposal by Archie Lesington, one of the seven, much to her mother's dismay. Felicity meets Haley Robinson, artist, and returning from her meeting with him meets a chap who turns out to be Nick Trenchard, the most eligible of the list.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 2

FELICITY did not bother to explain to her mother. "If I do, it will mean a quarrel, and I don't want to quarrel with her."

As for Nick Trenchard, he was a nice boy, nicer than she had suspected. But to set out deliberately to marry him or any other man without finding out whether or not she cared for him, that was impossible!

If she loved a man, like Haley Robinson, for instance, with all rather grim mouth, and dry way of talking, why then she could gladly give up the world for him.

Caroline Holt, her closest friend, gave a dance. Here she met Nick again.

They went out to the great Holt verandah.

"You know, it was something I won't forget—meeting you 'his afternoon," said Nick. His voice was husky.

Felicity liked him more now. He wasn't so conceited, and that was a relief, after most of the boys she knew.

His said with an effort, "What are you doing tomorrow?"

"Oh, I don't know. Yes, I do, too I'm going out."

"With a man?"

"Yes. Naturally."

"I don't want you to," he blurted out.

"Don't be silly," she said.

"Listen, you don't understand. I—I've fallen for you. I didn't want to fall for anybody. I just did. I'm jealous of you."

"I suppose you're in love with him," he said, jerking the words out. "Thanks for telling me. I won't bother you again." He turned on his heel and left her abruptly.

Felicity stayed for another two hours. As she was leaving she saw Nick Trenchard swaying by the doorway, looking at her miserably, his eyes bloodshot, his face thickened with drink.

Felicity turned her eyes away. "And that's the man my mother wants me to marry!" she thought.

She welcomed the afternoon. Happy the moment she started alone in the roadster to meet Haley Robinson.

His cottage stood in the midst of trees, a one-storied little building with low ceilings, an old hearth and strange, stiff furniture.

"Everything here is over a hundred years old" said Haley Robinson, with quiet pride.

He went into another room came back with a sketching pad, and Felicity looking up with a smile, saw him frowning now, sketching her without a word.

Suddenly he reached behind him for a penknife, slit the sheet free from the pad and handed it to her.

"Oh, but that's lovely! How could you do that so quickly. And do I look like that?"

"You happen to be one of the

CAFE MAN IDENTIFIES BANDIT

New Bedford, June 4 (AP)—William P. McManus of Boston and Alvaro Sylvia and John Raymundo of this city, who were arrested by the local police early Sunday morning and later identified by New Bedford hotel employes as three of the four men who entered that place a week ago Sunday and stole $270 at gunpoint, have been identified by several Elizabeth, N. J., persons as the same men who were involved in two holdups there last month.

Joseph Galligan, New York restaurant proprietor, who came here today with Police Detective Bertram Maskell of New York, identified McManus as one of the gang who held up his restaurant and shot Detective Peter P. Burns, a New York police detective.

Detective Maskell said that McManus was a partner of Ray Williams, held in New York without bail, accused of the actual shooting.

SUICIDE IS LAID TO LONELINESS

An "inferiority complex" is blamed as a possible reason for the mysterious death of Miss Louise F. McBride of West Virginia, in a statement issued today by Miss Ellen Pendleton, president of Wellesley College.

The president's brief statement indicated that she is inclined toward the theory of suicide, and that the girl took her life because of being unhappy over lack of attention of friends.

"No motive can be determined for Miss McBride's act, unless it was due to an inferiority complex," was the only statement the president would make. The statement was signed by her.

Sergt. O'Day of Wellesley police conducted further investigations today. He learned positively that the bottle of poison believed to have been used by the girl was taken from the college laboratory.

The Curious Quizzer

Simmons College Students Answer His Daily Question and Lose for Pictures

THE QUESTION

Do you agree with Professor Rogers of M. I. T. that "snobbishness" will aid a college graduate in his later business and married life?

MISS SARA LEE PERSKY, home, New York city—I think as intellectual man who to a certain extent is considered a snob will make good in business, but he should not display his snobbishness in anything but in gentlemanly deeds. I think Professor Rogers is right when he advises college men to show by their appearance and actions that they are to be looked up too, and to allow others to know that they expect to be recognized as a bit better than ordinary men of less learning. A snob would not necessarily become undesirable as a husband.

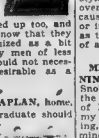
MISS MIRIAM KAPLAN, home, Lowell—A college graduate should show his good breeding, and being someone, what of a snob it should never bring him to a low level. I agree with Professor Rogers of Technology that over friendliness with all sorts of people will bring a highly educated man to their level, inevitably. Every college man should contain within himself a sort of distant aloofness to men under his business management and show them he is their superior.



• • •

MISS MARGERY L. BESSOM, home, Marblehead—Dr. Rogers of Tech is right in telling graduate students to act as snobs in so far as their personal looks go, but I think he went too far when he advised the boys to try and make everybody else feel themselves as inferior beings. A college graduate sometimes is called a snob just because he is especially comfortable in the latest styles of natty clothing, and seems over-careful in his speech, and because he never appears in his home or in a public place unless looking as though he had just jumped out of a band-box.

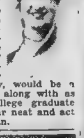
MISS MARGARET M. CUNNING, home, Medford Hillside—Snobs, contrary to the expressed ideas of Prof. Rogers, to my way of thinking, are not broad-minded enough. They are not the kind of man a girl likes to go around with in public places. Besides, a snob, college bred or one fighting his way without the advantages of schooling in a university, would be a hard person to get along with as a husband. A college graduate should always appear neat and act like a true gentleman.



FREE GUARD OF DEATH THREAT

Because they had insufficient evidence to hold him, a government customs guard, suspected as the writer of threatening letters to Constance Morrow, youthful sister-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was released by Boston police.

The guard, a resident of Dorchester, was shadowed by a Boston detective agency and was questioned at police headquarters relative to the Morrow letters in which $50,000 was demanded.

The man was also questioned about letters sent to Frederick H. Rose, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, threatening [illegible] now with the MacMillan expedition and to the family of Prince St. John Smith, missing Smith College girl.

The man is highly respected in the section in which he lives. He is married and the father of three children.

"All a mistake," was the statement made by police relative to his detention.

Demands New High School in Newton

Construction of a high school and a junior high school in Newton Center to serve the south side of the city is urged by the joint committee on school buildings, composed of aldermen and school committeemen. The committee has recommended to the aldermanic board that an appropriation be voted to have an architect draw the plans for the proposed building.

William Had a Little Baby and His Bike It Had a Little Shoe

The strange sight of a baby shoe dangling from the rear of the motorcycle of Officer William H. Dowling greeted Newton folk as he rode about the city on his trusty "bike."

Those who knew that Dowling recently became a proud daddy realized he was the victim of some good-natured kidding at the hands of his fellow coppers. Someone tied the shoe to the motorcycle—and everywhere that William went the shoe was sure to go.

4 VACCINATIONS FAIL TAUNTON PHYSICIAN

Taunton, June 4 (AP)—Strenuous efforts by Dr. William H. Bennett, chairman of the Taunton Board of Health, to prevent a spread of smallpox in this city culminated today in his contraction of the disease himself.

He was placed under quarantine at his home but it was said that his illness was not considered serious.

During the last four weeks Dr. Bennett has vaccinated 5000 persons. He took no precaution to inject vaccine into his own body four times but failed to produce the usual result.

There are five cases of smallpox in the city.

MacFayden Slated to Pitch Against the Indians

NARLESKY TOPS SOX HITTERS

By NICK FLATLEY

DANNY MacFAYDEN will try to get the long end of the Cleveland series for the Red Sox this afternoon. Danny has been elected to pitch the final pastime, which carries with it the laurels for the engagement. The Indians knocked off the natives in the opener Saturday, though they never should have done that little thing.

Then the Canucars evened it up by winning the first Boston Sunday game. That was such a thrill that the excited athletes are given a day of rest Monday. That game was called off because of cool weather or something. It will be part of a double header when the Indians come here on their next swing.

Hal Rhyne, who started off the season as regular short-stop, and then cracked a finger, is getting ready to come back. Hals hospital shift has given Bill Narlesky a chance to show, and Bill has taken right good advantage of the opportunity.

The boy shortstop is leading the club in hitting, so there isn't much chance of prying him away from some regular job. Ease hits are so scarce at the Fenway that a leading manufacturer just has to be in there.

NARLESKY has clouted safely in 11 games in a row, and displayed a lot of fielding ability around short. He isn't a finished player yet, but he's a hustler and a plugger, and he will be good some day. He has plenty of courage, and will take a chance at anything. That spirit, plus the ability to hit, usually means a ball player.

Bill is somewhat slow starting after a ball. He has good hands and a strong arm, and collects whatever he reaches. But he must get more of a jump on the ball. That will probably come with further experience.

And meantime you must admit that a kid in his first trial, who can hit .340 through a month of regular playing is a natural sweater.

BOSTON fans just now are interested mostly in the management of the Braves. Judge Fuchs, though he doesn't say so, is willing to pass up that job permanently. He has asked Evers to take it over, and John is unwilling. Hank Gowdy has also turned it down.

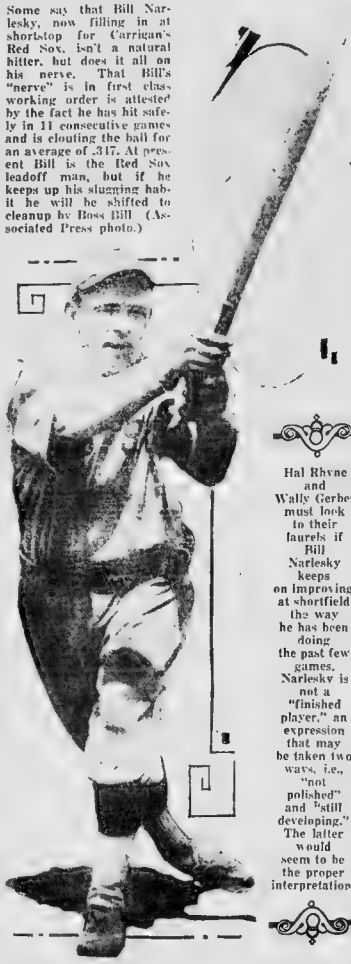
Either one of the pair would be the logical successors, but athletes are chary about taking over losing teams. There is talk of hoisting the Rabbit up, but that would be poor policy just now.

The midget will be a good manager some day, but just now he is needed as a player. He's the whole life of the team on the field, and if he couldn't handle two jobs under the present adverse conditions. The Rabbit knows his stuff, but of to valuable as a player still, to think of managing just now.

When he starts again, he will want to have a going team, and steer it from the drop of the hat. Joe Dugan is being mentioned, and Joseph should be a pretty good skipper. But the Braves just now need a fire-eating, driving type of leader, like George Stallings, and Joseph is not that kind of a young man.

BLAZES BATTING TRAIL

Some say that Bill Narlesky, now filling in at shortstop for Carrigan's Red Sox, isn't a natural hitter, but does it all on his nerve. That Bill's "nerve" is in first class working order is attested by the fact he has hit safely in 11 consecutive games and is clouting the ball for an average of .317. At present Bill is the Red Sox leadoff man, but if he keeps up his slugging habit he will be shifted to cleanup by Boss Bill. (Associated Press photo.)



Hal Rhyne and Wally Gerber must look to their laurels if Bill Narlesky keeps on improving at shortfield the way he has been doing the past few games. Narlesky is not a "finished player," an expression that may be taken two ways, i.e., "not polished" and "still developing." The latter would seem to be the proper interpretation.

Senorita Would Discard More Than Stockings

London, June 4—Bare legs promise to be the sensation of the season's tennis matches at Wimbledon this year, and American girls will be largely responsible for it.

Six of Wimbledon's women tennis stars, including Helen Jacobs, who has just arrived here, have already announced their intention of putting the seal of approval upon the no-stocking fashion which was first introduced at the Bagdad of the lawn tennis world ten years ago by a South African girl, Miss Billie Tapscott.

Helen Wills, the American champion, says if the others play stockingless she will follow suit.

Miss Wills has been appearing in bare legs upon the French courts.

A foreign recruit to the new fashion is Senorita De Alvarez, the striking Spanish champion. She thinks the best costume for tennis is a bathing suit. "It," to quote her own words, "a costume is required at all."

The Spanish senorita asserts the idea of sport is the movement and display of the body.

"Therefore," she adds, "there should be no impediments." And she is convinced that one day in the not distant future the world again will see athletes performing as the Greeks did of old—naked.

TOMORROW BIG DAY IN SCHOOL BASEBALL

By DICK McSWEENEY

Tomorrow is the last big Wednesday on the scholastic baseball program and it happens to be one of the best. Suburban and prep nines whole away at each other as the curtain begins its descent on the season of 1929.

Newton has the Suburban League title practically cinched but that doesn't detract in the least from the Newton-Somerville fray at Palmer Field.

Newton crushed Rindge Tech Saturday and Somerville also stepped into the winning habit by downing Cambridge Latin, 10-0.

Nichols proved his worth in the Orange and Black box and at Rindge and is certain to start against the Somerville clan.

Hutchinson is slated to toss for the Red and Blue, but it would not be surprising if Francis Esposito led the Somerville mound in view of his excellent performance against the Cantabs on Saturday.

Medford is making ready for the advent of Lynn English, a team that has pitching and hitting to spare. Medford trounced Brockton recently and feels that Lynn English will suffer a like fate.

Cambridge Latin makes the trip to Lawrence. The Cantabs lost their hurling ace, McFayden when he crashed into the Medford stands while chasing a fly.

Malden entertains Winthrop and the result of this fracas hinges on the Blue and Gold pitching. Beaman will twirl for Malden. Parsons is the Winthrop mound toiler.

Brookline is elated over its 5-4 win at the expense of B. C. high and will be ready for Everett.

Woburn seems to be the logical winner of the Mystic Valley League hunting now that Waterman shows signs of weakening. Buck Weafer will pitch for Woburn when the team goes to Arlington.

I. C. 4-A MAY BAN WESTERNERS

New York, June 4—"Welcome" may not be on the eastern doormat for many more seasons so far as the visits of far western teams to the intercollegiate track and field championships are concerned.

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—A special committee of the Big Ten athletic conference went into secret session at 11 a. m. today, to hear the plea of the University of Iowa for reinstatement.

The committee, acting as a supreme court in the case, was presided over by Prof. George A. Gentenbach, University of Illinois. Assisting him were Professors Thomas E. French, Ohio State University, and James Paige, Minnesota.

Iowa was represented by E. H. Lauer, director of athletics, and Dr. Louis Pelzer, Iowa's representative on the faculty committee which suspended Iowa 10 days ago on charges of proselyting and subsidizing athletes.

JONES IS DUE TO PITCH

Cincinnati, June 4—The Reds are well firmly intrenched in the National League cellar and will remain so for another day at least, despite the strenuous endeavors of the Braves to dispossess them. Before the Eastern teams swung West the Reds took the precaution of digging in so far that the fans here about thought they could not possibly be ousted. But the bugs reckoned without the Braves.

That surprising aggregation, which nearly shocked the baseball universe into insensibility by jumping out into the lead and staying there for about three weeks, has furnished a second jolt by the manner in which they have slid down the ways.

Milk Fund Go Gate Reaches $250,000

New York, June 4 (INS)—The advance ticket sale for the Max Schmeling-Paulino Uzcudun heavyweight elimination bout at Yankee Stadium on June 27 has reached the quarter-million mark, according to William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden. A million-dollar gate is predicted by organizers of the milk fund card.

Paulino will be well equipped with sparring partners during the next three weeks. Jack Dempsey is already at the Baupie's camp at Hoosick Falls, N. Y. Benny Touchstone and Jack Dorvan, also will work out with the Spaniard.

JONES SHOWS CLASS BY WIN OVER MELLO

By JACK CONWAY

THEY call him Gorilla Jones, but, except when he starts tossing right-hand punches, he is just a good-natured colored boy from Akron, O. The lad they call Gorilla once more proved he was master of Al Mello, New England welterweight and middleweight champion, in their tussle at the Boston Garden.

This time Jones knocked Mello out. The end came in the ninth round when Gorilla beat the Lowell warrior to the canvas under a fierce barrage of right hand smashes to the jaw.

Jones handled Mello even more easily than he did in the New York Garden, where he scored two knockdowns. He had Al's number the second he stepped into the ring, and he knew it. Mello, on the other hand, appeared as though he realized Jones had the style and punch to upset him. He was a beaten boxer from the start.

The sure thing gamblers, who felt Mello couldn't be licked in his home section, took it on the chin. They gave odds of 10 to 7 on Mello when the correct odds should have been 10 to 3 Jones, in view of the way the New York match ended.

Jack Conway

JONES weighed 150 pounds Mello 149½.

The negro has just the style to click the New England champion. He will do so as often as they box. Gorilla's long left hand makes it impossible for Mello to land many telling punches. He manages to keep Al off balance most of the time and the local warrior's socks fall short.

For only a round was Mello in the battle. That was in the opening frame, when he sailed to close quarters and tried to count with left and right hand blows. Jones picked most of Mello's blows off in mid-air. Those that he missed landed on his shoulders. Jones didn't do any scoring himself, but he smothered Al's attack.

JONES had his right hand ready to shoot at all times. He found two openings for it in the second frame and Mello was jarred. Mello continued to force the issue, but Jones either blocked his punches or tied him up.

Gorilla's long left kept Mello off balance in the third frame. Al kept walking forward, but couldn't score. At times he looked lifeless in his boxing. Meanwhile Jones kept picking openings for his right.

Putts and Chips From Vesper — By Bill Grimes

Tyngsboro, Mass, June 4—Although Jesse Guilford always gets the gallery in any championship, he is sure the prime favorite when he is playing any town north of Boston, and Vesper is no exception.

Bert Nicoll of Belmont Spring should have been strokes lower than the 102 he had for the first day's play. Nobody in the field played better golf than the flying pro from tees to greens, but he could not get his putter working.

Tom Dean of Myopia came within six inches of getting one of these things at the seventh hole in the morning round yesterday. The North Shore thumper whirled into his tee shot and carried the corner and then dropped a No. 3 iron six inches from the cup.

Charlie Nicoll of Arlmont was unable to break into the 70s, but he had the satisfaction of being the best dressed player in the championship. Charlie was a symphony in brown, and attracted more than the ordinary amount of attention.

One young unheralded and unsung professional, Dick Lincoln of Shatherly, came through with a fine pair of 78's. This is Lincoln's first attempt at a State open championship, but he displayed enough stuff today to register in great style.

"Hutch" Parker made a rare discovery. He found two scribes who did not indulge.

Jesse Guilford played better than he has ever played at Vesper to pick off his 144 for the first two rounds. He was the master of the situation in the morning round, but was in more than the average amount of trouble during the p. m.

All this talk about who is the longest driver should be directed at Jesse P. Guilford, the Woodland sloge gun. He was out beyond the 250 mark on many holes, but his prize "thump" was off the 15th tee in the second round, where he caught hold of a real one, which went about 325 yards. Mel Merritt, of Salem, had a unique experience. He lost a ball in a trap.

Willie Ogg's 69 cost Tom Southam money. Southam, who is chairman of the golf committee at Vesper, wagered that 70 would not be broken.

Guilford and Ogg had the honor of breaking the course record. Jesse knocked three strokes off the lowest competitive mark in the morning and then Worcester Willie bettered Jesse's score by a stroke.

Considering the article of golf Willie Ogg played in the first round, his 69 was truly a wonderful achievement. He hit more sour shots in the morning round than he has connected with in five years of championship play.

Alex Watson of the Hudson River Country Club is the one invader the locslites must watch. Watson put together a 73 and a 77 for a 150 yesterday and he is hot.

Bud Clancy, the former state caddy champion, finished the first day on even terms with such stars as Mike Brady, Joe Batchelder and Ralph Munro.

Youngest Player in Mass. Open Shoots a 70 at Vesper

GUILFORD LEADING FIELD

By BILL GRIMES

ALTHOUGH Jesse P. Guilford of Woodland, who started the day with a five-stroke lead on the field, picked up a stroke on Willie Ogg of Worcester, who was the runnerup at the end of the first 36 holes, he was forced to yield six strokes to Bobby Crowley of Kenoza

The latter is the youngest player in the field, and made his spurt during the third round of the Massachusetts Open Championship at the Vesper Country Club

CROWLEY TAKES 79

Guildford put together a 39-37 for a 76, giving him a total of 220 for 54 holes, with Bobby Crowley and a remarkable 79 to his credit, and is now only 4 strokes behind the Belgo Golfer.

Starting the third round Crowley was tied for 12th place, just 10 strokes behind Guilford but the youthful professional, who celebrated his 20th birthday last Saturday, picked up 4 strokes on the Gulf going to the turn, being out in 35 which is one under par. He came back in two under par pulling himself into a most creditable position.

Willie Ogg of Worcester was unable to do better than a 77 this morning and is now in third place with a total of 222, an even half dozen strokes behind Guilford and two shots down to Crowley

TRI-CORNERED TIE

There is a three cornered tie for fourth place at 231 between Charlie McAndrew, Lacoula, N. H., and the two New Yorkers, Mike Brady and Alex Watson, while Bert Nicoll of Belmont Spring is in seventh place with 229

Bobby Crowley finished in a wonderful round when he put together the pair of 39's for a 70, which figures better the par for Vesper by 3 strokes. Although Bobby played beautiful golf through the fairways it was his great putting stroke and remarkable putting that brought him through.

His chipping was so deadly that he had no less than seven one-putt greens and he came through with four birdies and one only ever par in one hole, the third. This hole he threw putted.

At the short 4th over the river, Crowley scored the first birdie, but exploded out and dropped a 2-larder for a three.

GETS BIRDIE

A 25-foot putt from the edge of the sixth green gave Bobby his first birdie and he came back on the seventh with another birdie, getting home in two and down to a five 4.

After getting a regulation 4 at the 8th a slightly pulled tee shot off the 9th landed Bobby's ball in the bank at the left of the green, but he chipped dead and was down in one putt with a 3, which put him 35 at the turn.

At the 13th Bobby got a par again after going over with his second for he chipped back stoney for another one putt.

A beautiful second shot to the 16th green left Bobby a seven-foot putt for another birdie, which he dropped. Although he was short from the tee on the 17th again he chipped dead and one putted himself into a par 5

He was just short of the home hole in two, chiped on tapped his putt for a birdie 4, giving him a 35 for the inward round and a total of 70.

50 BOXERS IN REVERE ELKS' TOURNEY

The opening amateur series of the Revere Lodge of Elks at the Revere Beach bicycle track tonight should prove one of the best conducted in this section of the country. Fifty entries have rolled in to John Cuddy, manager of the event.

There is parking space for 500 autos handy to the track. It is the first effort of the Elks and the committee members have spared nothing in the way of insuring its success. The entire proceeds, less the expense of the events, which are to be a weekly fixture at the Revere track, will be turned into a fund for the needy of the beach city

For 30 years "Tad" T. A. Dorgan, one of the greatest cartoonists and sporting authorities that ever lived, covered the "fight" game. Shortly before his death "Tad" wrote and illustrated a series of stories describing in his inimitable style those ring battles which for thrills and sensational ism were stamped indelibly in his mind. These reminiscences deal not only with fights in which titles were at stake, but with thrilling affairs staged in private and at the smaller clubs. This story is one of the stories.

By TAD

Jem Driscoll, of England, was a fighter and a winner.

He took Matty Baldwin, our own 130-pounder, in his first American appearance and made him look like a man who had been tossed into a cold tank and couldn't swim. It took place at the Fairmount Club on the night of November 13 1908. Matty stuck out the distance, but didn't know where he was at all.

For six rounds Mathew was the drowning man grasping at a straw and, as for looks, he made the wreck of the Hesperus look like a beautiful Venetian evening.

There was never a time during the six rounds that the clever Bostonian had a look-in with England's best, and that's saying a great deal when lovers of Baldwin admitted it.

We had been up to see Jem box with local lads, and he showed up bravely. He dropped a few, knocked some cold, and made others look like drunken men groping about in the dark. Some thought that the stories were colored a bit, and declared that when he met Baldwin the dope would switch.

MADE MATTY LOOK BAD

It didn't a bit. He made Matty look the same as the rest, and there wasn't a minute during the six rounds that Jem wasn't a winner Driscoll was a cross between Abe Attell and Packey McFarland He had the cleverness of Attell with the confidence and aggressiveness of McFarland. Baldwin, who was looked upon as a clever fighter, was merely a wild man swinging at a ghost.

In the very first round Driscoll cut Matty's mouth with a vicious left and had his eyes bleary and watery as he went to his corner. In the second Matty was worried and wild. He hadn't landed a clean punch. He tried his famous left chop, but it invariably landed on Jem's chest or cut the air like an electric fan.

In the third round his seconds told him to go in close. Charley Griffin, who had fought and lost to Driscoll, said that the only way to beat the lad up was to hug the rail, and Matty's seconds advised their man in this manner. He tried to get in close and rough it, but the only punches he landed were on the back. They might just as well have been on the lamp-post out in the street. Driscoll's arms were held so that all the force of the punch was spent before it landed. He had Baldwin buffaloed 40 ways from the jack

The fourth round was a really luck as far as punching was concerned. He landed a hard right that shook Jem and sent him jumping six feet away. It was merely landing one out of 50, and before Matty could send in another he had received five or six jabs on the sore mouth as a reward.

It was in this round that Driscoll stood the Boston idol stiff with a right to the jaw. Baldwin, tired of boxing, had set himself for a right. He missed a left, and, as he did, Driscoll beat him with a right and Matty stiffened up like cold candle grease. Before he came to he was battled into a corner and belted on each jaw.

MATTY'S HEAD BOBS

The blows were as much of a surprise to the crowd as they were to Matty. I saw only half of them myself, they came so fast

You would be watching Matty's head go back without seeing a punch.

In the fifth Driscoll was on top of his man all the way again, and Matty's bloody face showed the marks of defeat He was worried and crazy.

As the bell rang for the sixth and last round he made a brave attempt to even matters up but the man in front of him was too much of a puzzle. They mixed along the ropes and in ducking Baldwin fouled the Britisher with his head. Driscoll almost dropped to the floor with pain, but made no complaint and kept right on fighting His face plainly showed that he was hurt, but he stuck it out and boxed rings around his man until the bell rang

Driscoll left the ring without a mark and amid the cheers of the thousands who witnessed the battle. His gentlemanly behavior won the crowd after the first round.

Baldwin threw him to the floor twice and butted him with his head once, but there was never a time that the little Englishman seemed to win any other way but on the square

Maureen Orcutt Shatters Record

Philadelphia, June 4—Starting her defense of the women's eastern golf title at the Aronimink Club, Miss Maureen Orcutt of White Beeches, N. J., broke the women's record for the course with a 78 to lead the big field at the end of the first 18 holes of the 54-hole tournament. Her card was 39—39—78.

Miss Edith Quiter of Reading, Pa., finished second, five strokes behind Miss Orcutt. Her cards were 40—43—83. Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, champion of the Philadelphia district, was in third place, with 40—44—84, and Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, Philadelphia, and Miss Martha W. Parker, Westchester Hills, were tied for fourth, with cards of 42—43—85 and 39—46—85, respectively.

Belmont Wins, 50-22, on Track

IN

JACK CONWAY

"ALL Young Happy wanted for the Mello-Jones fight was a run-around," said Mr. Boston. "George Washington Grimm saw that he got it.

"Young Happy ran more miles than Clarence DeMar did in his entire career trying to catch up with the run-around. The youthful news merchant mentioned something about the difficulty of getting free tickets to the swan boats at the Public Garden, but that does not interest me.

"For the information of traffic cops and others a run-around is a ticket which merely gets one by the entrance of a fight club or a baseball orchard. It does not carry a seat check with it, but somehow most run-around customers usually end up by sitting on the necks of the reporters in the press row.

"The run-around customers, if placed in one pasture, would make a fine gang for a mob scene in some movie thriller.

"I would suggest that Sheldon H. Fairbanks at the Boston Garden park the run-around customers in the waiting room of the railroad station. A radio with a loud speaker would be all that would be necessary to make the run-arounders happy.

"I OWE an apology to my run-around customers. I got up with the sun yesterday and was in the office and on my way to the wide open spaces several hours before my regular schedule on fight days. Which left a flock of perfectly enterprising run-arounders with no place to go other than the Common. And the cops have been getting after the boys who have been cluttering up the benches on the Common.

"The Garden folks have opened war on the run-arounders and other species of free ticket snatchers. Annie Oakley originally bowed only to the press and a few of the boys in the know. But the dear creatures got so chummy that the Garden didn't know whether it was running its shows for the friends of Annie or for the cash customers.

"Sheldon H. Fairbanks and Eddie Mack report there were some 1061 Chinese tickets for the recent Maloney-Berlazzolo bout.

"'Why not let 'em all in free,' shouted Large Dan Carroll. 'I don't believe in any indiscrimination.'

"SO somebody got out an axe and some 500 tickets were slashed from the Annie Oakley list for the Loughran-Schaaf show. It was well there was a cut as the show cost $21,000 and only drew $16,000 The Garden took a loss of five grand

"I find that millionaires holler louder than ordinary folks when they are hit in the pocketbook. This is probably because they are not used to taking punishment. They have built up their bank balances by giving it

"BOB QUINN of the Red Sox has also taken a few slaps at some of the Annie Oakley boys. Bob has passed out a million or so free season tickets. He says he doesn't object to the person whose name appears on the pass using it, but he does get a little bit hot under the collar when a bird parades by the gate on a pass and then drops the pass over the grandstand wall to some member of his political faith so that he also can get in free.

"BOB says such a stunt is rubbing it in, especially when the second person who presents the pass makes a loud protest when he is told the ducat has already been presented once.

"I AM going to ask Park Commissioner Long to have a flock of tickets printed for admission to the Franklin Park Zoo. I might be able to slip them to the run-arounders. But then again the elephants and the lions may not care to be annoyed."

BOSTON LEADERS APPROVE HOYT'S PRIZE TEMPERANCE PLAN

COMMEND HEARST PAPERS

Expressions of commendation of the $25,000 prize-winning temperance plan submitted by Justice Franklin T. Hoyt brought forth the following commendations from Boston and other parts of the country:

ROMER ALBERS, dean of Boston University Law School—Personally I think we can obtain an indubitable situation. First, intoxicating liquor always has needed and still needs careful regulation. Second, the present situation is deplorable.

I doubt if any one can, with all one's brain storms, solve the problem or produce panacea. Yet this most real difficulty in this world, it must be approached gradually. We must allow evolution to have its effect.

Therefore, any plan that looks at all promising is worth while and for that reason I am not opposed to Judge Hoyt's plan. But I am not sure it goes far enough. For example, there might well be added to his plan governmental control of fermented liquors.

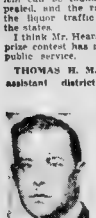
ALEXANDER LINCOLN of Boston, former assistant attorney-general.

The winning plan is perhaps the simplest for securing relief from the evils of national prohibition. The proposed definition of "liquor" as meaning distilled spirits, is plausible and may be workable, though I have some doubt whether it would be accepted by the Supreme Court.

I do not however, agree that the 18th Amendment can not be repealed; on the contrary, because that amendment offends the fundamental principles of the constitution I believe no permanent solution of the problem can be found until it is repealed, and the right to regulate the liquor traffic is restored to the states.

I think Mr. Hearst in holding the prize contest has rendered a great public service.

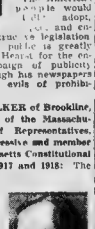
THOMAS H. MAHONY, former assistant district attorney—The suggestion of Judge Hoyt that "intoxicating liquor" specifically defined, given the wide publicity that it is sure to receive, would indeed go a long way if not the whole distance in remedying the flagrant evil of Prohibition and its attempted enforcement.



The American people would fully adopt, use and enforce such construction of legislation.

The American public is greatly indebted to Mr. Hearst for the enlightening campaign of publicity carried on through his newspapers relating to the evils of prohibition.

JOSEPH WALKER of Brookline, former Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, prominent progressive and member of the Massachusetts Constitutional Convention of 1917 and 1918: The plan of Mr. Justice Hoyt is good as far as it goes. I am against sumptuary legislation of any kind in the Constitution of the United States.



The distinction Mr. Hoyt makes between fermented and distilled beverages is sound. It would be a good thing for this country if it could be turned from hard liquor to beer and wine.

I fear that his proposed law will be declared unconstitutional, but in that case his proposed constitutional amendment could be passed. Mr. Hoyt's plan is so reasonable and practicable that it ought to meet with general approval.

FORMER UNITED STATES SENATOR JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS of Chicago—I am and always have been in hearty accord with the ideas in the plan offered by Judge Hoyt. I think that through affording the states individual choice as to whether light wines and beer shall be permissible or not, we shall take a long step toward eliminating the evils of prohibition as we now know it. I have always been opposed to the Federal Government legislating laws it cannot execute.

Anti-Saloon Head Is Hoyt Plan Critic

The Hearst newspapers publish the following statement of F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-saloon League, because it faithfully reflects the attitude of that organization in assuming to state what temperance legislation is likely to be passed or approved by the President of the United States, by the Congress of the United States, by the Supreme Court and by the state Legislatures.

By F. SCOTT McBRIDE,
General Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

Washington, June 4—The Hearst Prize Contest was apparently a great success as a newspaper publicity project, but it was a flat failure as an effort to reach a solution of the liquor problem.

That the winning plan would advocate beer and wine was a foregone conclusion in view of the well-known attitude of the Hearst papers, and of most, if not all, of the judges.

PREDICTS DEFEAT

The plan presented is not worth the paper that the $25,000 check was printed on, because it has no chance to be adopted, and if adopted would not have the shadow of a chance to succeed. Although the prize was offered for a practical plan, the judges by some strange process of reasoning selected a method that would have to get past four practically insurmountable barriers.

First—The present Congress will not pass a law calling beer and wine not intoxicating, and the people are not likely to elect a future Congress that would.

Second—President Hoover will never sign a bill restoring legal intoxicants by indirection and the people are not likely to elect a President that would.

Third—The Supreme Court is not likely to uphold a law permitting what the Constitution plainly and clearly forbids.

Fourth—The various states would not permit beer and wine even if incredibly the three branches of the Federal Government should.

Invariably dry states have defeated beer and wine proposals by larger majorities than those by which state prohibition was adopted.

A few Eastern States might conceivably try beer and wine, but the prize plan was supposed to be a national-wide solution of the problem. But judged abstractly on its merits, aside from the extremely remote possibility of its adoption, the prize plan, worth $25,000 to its author, is not worth 25 cents as a remedy for the evils of alcoholism.

It would increase, instead of decrease, the alcohol habit. It would entrench instead of rout the liquor traffic. It would restore all the evils of beer and wine and infinitely increase the difficulty of enforcing the law against whiskey.

FEARS SALOONS

Beer and wine would stimulate the desire for stronger intoxicants and protect the whiskey boot-leggers. Beer and wine would re-enthrone the brewers of the dominating political powers in the nation, with the resulting corruption such as we uncovered in Pittsburgh and in Texas in the days when beer was legal.

Beer and wine would restore the saloon in some form, and it would be as bad as the old institution, now universally condemned. Not even some new $25,000 Hearst prize names could change its nature. No plan, at whatever prize price it may have been obtained, will solve the liquor problem by any method that permits the manufacture and sale of habit-forming alcoholic liquor. So long as intoxicants intoxicate, and civilization demands sobriety, alcoholism must be prevented by observant and informed prohibition.

Capt. Thomas W. Therkildsen, executive secretary of the Moderation League

WINNER MADE HIMSELF A SUCCESS

The story of a boyhood spent in gainful pursuits, supplemented by continued attendance at night schools, is the story of the success of Thomas W. Therkildsen, winner of the third prize award, $2000, in the Hearst Temperance Prize Contest.

Capt. Therkildsen is at present executive secretary of the Moderation League, and is assistant secretary of the New York Society Military and Naval Officers of the World War. He lives at 243 East Fiftieth st., is married and has one son, 13 years old, now attending a private school and who expects to enter Kent School next autumn.

Therkildsen started work at an early age as an errand boy in a drug store and worked in many other lines of business while continuing his education at night. He has been a general manager of a large commercial organization, a farmer, a banker, superintendent of a brick yard and his last commercial position was with a firm of New York lawyers, where he assisted in corporation work.

He enlisted as a private in the 10th Infantry, New York National Guard, and with his company was later assigned to guarding the New York Aqueduct, as a unit of the First Provisional Regiment. He rose rapidly from the ranks and was commissioned first lieutenant in December, 1917, and captain in March, 1919.

During 1919-20, he was engaged by the National Guard Association to tour the country with a group of officers to stimulate interest in the reorganizing of the National Guard and also in legislation for national defense.

THERKILDSEN IS GLAD TO HELP IN REFORM

New York, June 4—At the New York headquarters of the Hearst Temperance Contest Committee, Capt. Thomas J. Therkildsen, third prize winner, received on Saturday from Francis J. Tietsort, editor of the Hearst contest, a check for $2000. The ceremony was brief, Tietsort said.

"There has been delegated to me the honor of presenting to you this third prize, marking you as author of one of the four most meritorious plans submitted to the board of judges. I speak for the judges, for the donor of the prize and for the Hearst newspapers when I extend to you hearty congratulations on your praiseworthy accomplishments.

HAPPY TO ASSIST.

"You have made a valuable contribution to a patriotic cause."

Capt. Therkildsen was deeply impressed by the news that he had outdistanced more than 71,000 other contestants. He said:

"This is for me a memorable moment. It is a thrilling experience. Naturally, the prize money means much to me, for, like most men with a family, I have many financial obligations.

"But primarily my happiness springs from the fact that I composed the plan with the underlying motive of doing my little bit toward helping our country out of the deep slough into which the national prohibition laws have cast it.

SHORTEST OF PLANS.

"And so, quite aside from the natural pleasure of winning, comes gratification at having accomplished an altruistically inspired task.

"I wish to thank the Hearst newspapers and to assure them that I am deeply appreciative of the opportunity they have given me to spread before so many millions of our citizens my plan for modification of the existing law."

Incidentally, Capt. Therkildsen's plan is the shortest of the four prize-winning themes. Although by the rules of the contest Capt. Therkildsen was permitted to use 1000 words in expressing his plan, he confined his essay to 695 words.

'Heirloom' Wedding Ring Costs $900 in Customs Duty

New York, June 4 (AP)—Pierre Kressman, French wine dealer, failed to declare a diamond ring on arriving aboard ship, so it was seized.

He said he thought it was immune from duty, as it was an heirloom destined for the finger of his fiancee, a girl from Toledo, who would meet him at the pier.

The customs men waited with him. No girl appeared. Then Pierre got the ring by paying $900.

Civil War Veteran Succumbs to Shock

Woodsville, N. H., June 4—George W. Richardson, 84 one of the best known G. A. R. men in New Hampshire and junior vice-commander of the department, died at Cottage Hospital here, having been stricken with a shock after presiding at the Memorial Day exercises in Town Hall, North Haverhill, where his son, Guy, was the speaker of the day.

Find Boy's Body

Biddeford, Me., June 4—The body of David Leahy, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leahy of 10 State st., who disappeared some weeks ago, was found floating among the logs in the Saco River.

Temperance Plan No. 3 for Light Home Brews

held in the cases of United States vs. Hill and the United States vs. Isner. The above provision is to be inserted in the law so that persons, who by reason of locality or home conditions are not able to carry on home manufacture, may legally procure such cider and wines.

(C) For the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of beer containing not more than 2.75 per cent of alcohol.

That such beer is not intoxicating was conceded by the Government in the case of Ruppert vs. Caffey. Also, Wayne B. Wheeler, in The American Issue, of March 21, 1924, said that Congress could legalize 2.75 per cent beer.

(D) That the Federal Government shall enforce this law only insofar as interstate commerce, importation and exportation are concerned; leaving enforcement within the states to the states themselves. This would obviate the double jeopardy inevitable under the present system of dual enforcement.

(E) That medicinal liquor shall be sold only by manufacturers, and wholesale and retail druggists licensed by the various states.

(F) That the sale of cider, wine and beer permitted in this act shall be by stores established exclusively for that purpose under license by the various states.

(G) That the beverages permitted in this act shall be sold in sealed packages only, for consumption at places other than the place of sale.

This provision will be an insurance against the return of the saloon and at the same time make it possible to procure beverages legally for home consumption, or to transport them to hotels or restaurants to be consumed.

THIRD—Each state that wishes to permit the beverages permitted by the national temperance act would enact laws providing for the required licenses. These laws should provide that counties shall have the right to vote at specified times on the question whether or not the manufacture or sale of such liquors or beverages shall be permitted in the county. If the county votes for permission, the law should provide that the number and location of places licensed to sell shall be determined by a committee of three citizens of the county, appointed by the county judge; except where a county consists in part of cities of the first or second class, in which case the appointment of the committee should be by the senior Supreme Court judge located in such county.

The Federal Government now has the right under existing laws to collect import duties and internal revenue taxes on the beverages provided for in this act.

Nothing in the proposed legislation would force any state to permit what its laws forbid. The prohibition against shipment into states which do not desire to permit the beverages permitted by the proposed legislation would be covered by existing laws.

THE plan which won the fourth prize will appear in the Boston Evening American tomorrow.

Cuticura Healed Face Broken Out With Pimples and Blackheads.

"My face was broken out with pimples and blackheads and seemed to be getting worse all the time. The pimples were large and red and festered and scaled over. They itched causing me to scratch them, and my face was disfigured. I had them on my face for quite some time.

"Nothing seemed to help me, so I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using it with benefit I purchased more and in about two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss B. Jennings, 8 Front Ave., West Haven, Conn.

BOSTON ICE IS NEARLY ALL ARTIFICIAL

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

President Charles C. Small of American Ice Co. tells me: "We now have 81 ice manufacturing plants and 1 refrigerating plant in operation in the city. We have equipped and improved many of our plants in the past few years. We have noticed a steady increase in the use of artificial ice and we are proud of the fact that there is still a wonderful natural ice crop for use, as proved by our splendid sales during the past few warm days.

Charles C. Small

"Tourists through beautiful New England frequently observe the 'For Sale' signs on many cottages, and, once active, and think artificial refrigeration has doomed the ice cream parlor. Such is not the case. More than 97 per cent of the ice sold in Boston is manufactured. And I am pleased to say that very well. Artificial ice is fast coming to be a regular article of domestic use. Modern invention has a lot of money in them."

Secretary Lamont of the Department of Commerce reports finding the business situation monotonously regular for the past two weeks with building construction continuing slightly weak. Other business reservers point to declining figures in the building situation. I do not find any of them noting the existence of labor troubles outside of New England, although such troubles are in evidence. Neither do they note that the New England building record continues to run against that in other sections, the figures for the last reported week in New England, as furnished by F. W. Dodge Corp., showing the highest total for the week ever recorded.

Another inventor of artificial wool is with us. A cable from London to the Journal of Commerce says plans for the manufacture of artificial wool are revealed in an offer to the public of an issue of 120,000 preference shares of 1 each and 120,000 ordinary shares of 4s. each. A company to be called N. A. Artificial Wool Co. Company will acquire chemical and mechanical processes invented by Joseph Viallet of Paris for the manufacture of an artificial wool or substitute for wool.

The successful production of an artificial wool might well have far-reaching consequences. Ever since the date of issue is set ten days later than the first date mentioned. The banks will have additional trouble in counting currency until the old bills are exhausted, because of the color difference in size. It has often happened in the past that counterfeiters have produced remarkably drastic changes to defraud the public before it became familiar with the new bill.

New York Times publishes a story agreeable to our own opinion of yesterday in connection with Wall Street and proceed to dismiss all stories of calculated raiding operations as the fiction of professional bear traders.

It is roughly estimated that it will be at least a year before the present U. S. bills finally disappear, just as it is also estimated about five years will roll by before the last vestige of the Model T cars vanish from the roads.

The possibility of considerable freight congestion in the fall, with a consequent increase in forward buying of most commodities, is considered by The Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., in its latest report on the general business situation. The line of argument by which the question is raised starts with the activity of the steel manufacturers to meet the potential demand for their products in the fall.

"If steel activity along with general business holds up at anything approaching recent levels, there is a possibility that the railroads will have difficulty in meeting traffic requirements at the seasonal peak in September and October. Any shortage of freight equipment leading to delay in deliveries usually stimulates heavier forward buying, duplication in orders and stocking of materials. If we should run into such a period in the late summer and fall, its effects on steel operations and prices are easy to foresee."

PROVIDENCE Gas Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common, payable July 1 to stock of record June 15.

Useful Hints on These Pages

NO woman can afford to miss these magazine pages. Here you will find household information of great value, a wonderful article by an eminent physician, important advice on matters of etiquette by a woman who knows, and fashion hints fresh from Paris, showing handsome gowns.

Magazine Page

Dr. Block's Daily Health Hint

DO not rush a child into adulthood. Don't try to make him sophisticated before his time. Not only does such training warp a child's viewpoint of life, but it may even interfere with his health. Let a child be a child as long as possible. Let him play, run about, and don't let him overstudy.

Try Vegetable Salads

SOME people have an anti-vegetable complex but if the vegetables are carefully cooked and daintily prepared in salad form they seem to "go down" much easier.

Take this typical spring salad, for instance rich in those vital vitamines and truly delicious if properly chilled.

Martha Lee

First arrange lettuce on individual salad plates and radiate asparagus tips toward the edge, in wheel-spoke fashion. In the space between the tips, arrange one mound each of chilled cooked and diced carrots and fresh-cooked chilled peas. Sprinkle the carrots with chopped parsley and the peas and asparagus with pimento and garnish with mayonnaise.

Spinach salad may not strike a very responsive spark, but with a little different flavoring can readily be brought out of the ordinary class. In the Martha Lee Kitchen we recently made a salad with two cups of cold boiled spinach chopped fine and sprinkled with a little cinnamon, or lemon juice if you prefer.

This was arranged on lettuce and garnished with hard-boiled eggs and a mixture of chopped olives and hard-boiled eggs and mayonnaise using 2-3 cup of olives and two hard-boiled eggs to two cups of cold boiled spinach.

Common garden potato salad is acceptable prepared thus:

POTATO SALAD

Boil six potatoes in their skins. While they are boiling, chop two tbsps. of onions very fine, add two tbsps of diced celery and place in a bowl with ½ tsp. of salt, two tbsps. of catchup and ¼ c. of mayonnaise dressing. Peel and dice the potatoes while hot and moisten them with another ¼ c. of dressing and let stand until ice cold. Arrange on very crisp lettuce and garnish with hard-cooked slices and ribbons of green pepper and tiny baby beets, boiled and chilled, or radishes or olives.

A popular combination is cream cheese mixed with chopped nuts or pimento or both, with perhaps the addition of 1 tbsp. of finely-chopped green pepper pressed into green pepper cases which have been parboiled for five minutes in a little soda and water. Place on ice to become very firm for an hour or two. Cut in inch cross-way slices and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. These look like chamois.

With mayonnaise as a base, you can vary your salad dressings in many ways to suit your individual taste. With highly flavored salads, we serve mayonnaise just as it comes from the jar. With mild salads we spice it up with chopped pickles or other zippy ingredients. For sweet salads we add whipped cream, a little honey, chopped nuts or chopped preserved ginger.

A delicious chiffonade dressing is made with two tbsps. of chopped parsley, two tbsps of chopped pepper, one tbsp. of pimento, one small finely chopped onion, one c. of mayonnaise and paprika enough to make it quite red.

For a fluffy dressing, add one beaten dry egg white to one c. of mayonnaise.

New York dressing is made with ½ cs. of mayonnaise one tbsp of chopped chives or onion, one tbsp. of parsley, and a tbsp of chopped chervil if you can get it.

Fish sauce calls for ½ c. of chili sauce and ½ c. of heavy whipped cream and ½ c. of mayonnaise and then there is a delicious but mayonnaise used like Hollandaise. For this, combine ½ c. of hot white sauce with one tbsp. of lemon juice and 2-3 c. of mayonnaise. Serve hot on asparagus tips, broccoli or broiled fish.

Yours for newer and better salads,
MARTHA LEE.

JUNE! The month of roses and sunshine and Sweet Girl Graduates and Brides! The beginning of summer and the beginning of life and a career for the Sweet Girl Graduate. But to the Bride it's the beginning of Happiness and a fulfilment of dreams. Once the Bride was a Graduate—then she thought that her cup of happiness was indeed overflowing. Through with school days! Through with all the long, dreary nights of studying and poring over books! True, there were some marvelous days in those dear, departed school days, but never a regret did she feel when at last they were over and she held the coveted diploma.

But now—she's a bride! A June Bride! The loveliest thing on the face of the earth! And she laughs when she thinks what a little silly she was as a graduate! What big things she was going to do! How she would make the world ring with her name! But when Love came along how willingly she forgot everything else but just Love.

June's specialties—Brides and Roses and Sweet Girl Graduates! Each marvelously happy; each wondrously beautiful! And how fitting it is that this month which marks the beginning of summer—the loveliest season of all the year—should claim for its very own the Brides and Graduates, each beginning a new and wondrous life.

So here's to you all! May you find the happiness you seek, and may the Love you choose bring you the fulfilment of all your dreams!

AUCTION BRIDGE

by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

Auction Bidding: South bids one Club, rather than one No Trump because of his weak Spade doubleton. West passing, North makes a betterment bid of one Spade. East bids two Hearts. South, with apparently two Heart stoppers, bids two No Trumps.

Contract Bidding: South's forcing bid of two Clubs is taken out by North with two Spades, which East passes. South then jumps to three No Trump, trusting to his partner to look out for Spades.

The Play: East leads the King of Hearts and then abandons that suit, as South is clearly marked with the Ace. Jack and East has no re-entries. East switches to Diamonds and South, winning the trick, leads a low Club which West wins. West returns a Diamond. South wins and leads another low Club, retaining control of the suit in case of a 4-1 adverse distribution.

	♠ A Q 8 3 ♥ 7 4 ♦ 10 7 4 2 ♣ 9 5 2
♠ K 7 2 ♥ 8 5 3 ♦ 10 5 3 ♣ K Q J 6	♠ 9 6 5 4 ♥ K Q 10 9 8 6 ♦ 9 8 ♣ 7
	♠ 10 2 ♥ A J 2 ♦ A K Q ♣ A 10 8 4 3

West returns another Diamond and establishes his Jack. South now leads the 10 of Spades and finesses the Queen, which wins. A Heart is led through East's Queen 10 and two Heart tricks are taken. Dummy leads a Spade, North wins, and puts West in with another Spade. West, winning with the King, makes his good Diamond and is then compelled to lead away from his guarded King of Clubs, giving Dummy the last two tricks. Declarer makes game.

Tomorrow's article will show the bidding and play of another hand.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

Butter up, or rather, racquets up when the player wears a smart combination beret and eye shade which greatly resembles a baseball player's cap. The beret is divided into three sections of different colors, and it constitutes a piece of colorful as well as useful headgear for the tennis courts.

We are now clasped in jeweled bondage, as jeweled clasps have thrown off the yoke of the old fashioned hook and eye. Set in rhinestones or colored crystals, these clasps are sewn to the garment in question, which may range all the way from shoulder straps to a decollete back and even a garter.

Doctor Scores "Neighbor's Interference" on Health

THE "neighbor's interference" is greater to combat than a disease itself, Dr Solomon Rubin, podiatrician at the Beth Israel Hospital, told the members of the women's auxiliary at a general meeting in the Temple Ohabei Sholem Center.

He mentioned the person who meets you on the street and tells you how bad you are looking.

Or the individual who tells you not to do what the doctor told you; that it would make you worse.

Those people who think the newly married young girl's child belongs to the community for its upbringing.

Or those who still cling to traditional prejudices, superstitions, beliefs about children's diseases; that they must be, so nothing should be done about it.

The mother of 10 who tells you how to bring up children by virtue of her experience.

"To such women we sometimes like to say that if they knew so much they wouldn't have had 10 children," Dr. Rubin continued. "Such meddling must we wipe out of the community if the doctor is to do his work efficiently."

That the interference of "advising" neighbors, friends, relatives, and those who "think" they have your interest at heart, is one of the dangerous problems confronting the doctor today, Dr. Rubin could not stress too rigidly.

"Help us to do away with such people and you will be helping to reduce disease and the number of sick people."

This was the last meeting of the season for the auxiliary and was presided over by the president, Mrs. I. K. E. Prager of Allston.

Mrs. I. K. E. Prager

Approximately 9000 Jewish women are enrolled in this auxiliary which maintains the out-patient department of the Beth Israel Hospital.

The auxiliary is pledged to carry the financial burden of this hospital department, and they feel morally obligated to make it the best out-patient department in the country.

Mrs. Prager urged the women to become well acquainted with the methods of the department. Particularly anxious is Mrs. Prager to have the women attack the rumors of "pull" and "favoritism" about admission to the out-patient department.

Such accusations are untrue. Those conditions must be refuted. No such thing ever existed and nobody can pull anything to gain admission," she said.

This she gave them as their summer assignment.

Mrs George Wyner, reporting as chairman of the life members' committee, said that 149 women have life membership in the auxiliary.

Mrs. Harris Ginsburg said that she, too, would become a member for life. Life membership is $100.

A drive for life members will start in the fall. At that time, Mrs. Prager announced, the committee on education would start simple courses on the art of better living and how to attain better health.

It was read from reports that of 7229 patients in the out-patient department admitted since last January, 3117 were free patients.

"Two kinds of patients come to the hospital," Dr Rubin said. "Those who are really sick and those who think they are."

Dr Rubin told of a recent successful operation on a nine-month-old infant for the removal of a cancerous kidney. Such a case is perhaps unparalleled in medical history, he said, but it was a fact that so young a child had a cancerous kidney and his life was saved.

"There is no such thing as a child having to have a disease simply because other children have them," he said. "If one does have the measles or whooping cough or other similar ailments it is because somebody was careless."

Patients blame "too much mother-in-law" often for their failure to carry out the doctor's orders, he said.

"If you can help to get people to leave the patient to the doctor's care and treatment, and not to the care prescribed by tradition and superstition, and what others say, you not only will be helping yourselves, but the community, the hospitals and the doctors.

"People give medical advice as though they know something. They don't, and their advice is groundless. Help us to get rid of interference."

WOMEN'S ITALIAN CLUB

A successful social and financial season for the Women's Italian Club will close tomorrow, with the annual luncheon at Barbese Inn, Sudbury. Mrs. Andrew Gatturna has charge, substituting for Mrs Frank Leveroni, who is traveling abroad. The president, Mrs. Luigi P. Verde, will preside. Mrs. Marguerita Gallo of Barbecue Inn, former president of the club, will donate the proceeds minus the expenses of the luncheon, to the club's building fund. Mrs. Felix Forte has charge of the musical program.

DAUGHTERS OF UNION VETS

The exemplification of the ritual of the Massachusetts Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will take place Friday night in Reading. The officers and members of the Lydia Bixby Tent, No. 60, will officiate. An interesting program has been arranged after the exercises.

MILLBURY WOMAN'S CLUB

The closing meeting of the season will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. by the Millbury Woman's Club, with election of officers and a musical program as features. Mrs. Daniel Chase has charge of the music. Mrs. Harry L. Snelling, president, will preside.

Masculine Women

By L. E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

A WOMAN can be content without a man, but the truth is she is content in spite of the fact rather than because of it.

All women, of course, are not equally feminine. And the less feminine they are the more inclined are they to boast of their independence upon the opposite gender.

This separation of the sexes, actual or in spirit, is bad for the propagation of the race, for social relationships, and for the individuals themselves.

What the world needs today is co-operation between the sexes and not antagonism between them.

It has not yet been disproved that the family, after all, is the keystone in the arch of life. Not only is the family sociologically necessary and desirable, family ties, especially as between man and wife, bring out the best that human beings possess in the emotional sphere.

And when we realize that the environment of a child, the character of its mother and father, and the reaction of the child to these factors, constitute the most important influences of the child's entire career, nothing more need to be said about the desirability of marriage and the home.

Loveless matings, to be sure, are a different proposition.

It is the non-feminine woman who is most likely to disparage home ties and to talk about companionate marriage and all other sidetracking schemes as though she had discovered a panacea for the world's ills.

Such a virile type of woman is merely displaying what, for want of a better term, I will designate as masculine attributes.

She is the kind that is guided by reason rather than emotion and intuition.

She considers co-operation with a man a kind of subservience at which her independence of spirit revolts.

Such a woman is also very egotistic. Often, in addition, she is selfish [illegible]

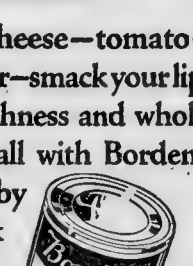
Cream-of-onion with cheese—tomato—Down East Clam Chowder—smack your lips at their double-cream richness and wholesomeness. Make them all with Borden's Evaporated Milk—made by the oldest and largest milk company in America.



(Paste this tested recipe in your cook-book)

Down East Clam Chowder 50 clams, ½ pound fat salt pork, cut in small cubes, 2 medium-sized onions, sliced, 1 quart potatoes cut in one-half inch cubes, 3 cups boiling water, 2 cups Borden's Evaporated Milk, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter.

Scrub clams thoroughly, using a small brush. Open, reserving liquor. Chop the hard parts of clams. Fry out pork slowly in a soup kettle. Add onions and fry five minutes in fat. Add potatoes, water and hard part of clams. Simmer very slowly until potatoes are tender. Ten minutes before serving add soft part of clams, milk and seasonings. Bring to scalding point and thicken with flour blended with butter. Heat the clam liquor and add to the chowder. Pour over crackers.

most beautiful women I've ever seen," he said deliberately.

Felicity drew her breath softly. "That would be a wonderful thing to be. Only I'm not. Oh, I'm not being modest! In the first place—"

"In the first place," he interrupted, "I wouldn't waste my breath flattering you."

She said all at once, out of impulse, "Do you know what I'm thinking about you?"

"What?"

"That you know a great deal about women."

"I ought to. I've studied several of them in captivity."

"You mean you've been married several times?"

"God forbid!"

"I don't want to marry either," she said.

"Why do you have to?"

"I'm in society."

"I know that. But I repeat, why do you have to?"

"Well, for the sake of position." Haley Robinson said rather softly, "If I were you, I'd be sensible, my dear. Marry the man, and get done with it. That's your job. You'll have plenty of time for love."

Now, in spite of herself, tears came to her eyes. She turned her head sharply, tried to control herself desperately, and then one faint sob escaped.

He sighed and came toward her. He was gentler now.

"Do you want love that much?" he said. "I want anything. I shouldn't have come here. I'm going now."

"Listen," he said, ignoring her outburst, "if you really want freedom, why not take it?"

"How? How can I? If you knew the life I live. It's like being in prison."

"Get out of the prison. Run away! No one can stop you."

"Run away?"

"Yes. Get a job. I'd help you, if you wanted that. The stage perhaps. Or—or—let me see! Can you draw at all?"

"A little bit."

"I might get you something in his Art Service, if only lay-outs stuff like that."

"But it's impossible!"

"Nevertheless, you're going to come to it. I want you to put done, my address in New York.

"But this is absurd," she said. "Why is it? I'm leaving here tomorrow you know."

"Tomorrow!" Her heart leaped. She felt a wave of disappointment rush over her."

She had risen, and he was standing close to her, so close that it needed but a step for him to take her in his arms. Alas her. She swayed a little. She was afraid of that kiss, and yet she wanted it. And if it would tell her, tell her something she longed to know.

But suddenly he drew away, with a little smile. "I knew it. I let him kiss me, and he wanted to kiss me!" Felicity thought swiftly. "Why did he do that?" She was irritated by him, and now she knew with certainty she was fascinated, too.

Later, he walked with her to her car, waved her a casual good-by.

As her car swung in at the Crossways drive a figure appeared directly in her path, so that she had to jam her brakes on suddenly. It was Nick Trenchard, pale and determined, who had been waiting for her there.

"I've been waiting for you here—all afternoon," he blurted out. "I had to see you."

Felicity looked at him in wonder and compassion. He did look miserable.

"You're awfully decent to me," he said rather huskily.

"Oh, you don't know me. You just think that because you don't know me."

"But I want to know you. I want to know all about you. I told you I'd fallen for you. I really have. Listen, I'm crazy about you, Felicity."

"Don't, Nick," she said quietly. "Don't—I'd rather not have you go on—"

"I—I'm trying to propose to you," he stammered.

"I know you are. That's why I don't want you to go on. I'm terribly glad you like me—but I just don't feel that way about you."

"But you could learn, even yet, either. You haven't given me a chance."

"Nick, I think you're awfully sweet, I really do; but I just couldn't love you, don't you see?"

"All right," he said with difficulty. "But I'm not giving up. I never will. I'll try to get a job—I don't know where or how. And then I'll come back to you. You'll see."

Suddenly he reached forward and caught her hand and kissed it. And then, without a word, he turned quickly as if to hide the emotion in his face and strode away.

In the hallway Mrs. Strake met her with a cross face. She was holding a telegram in her hand.

"Your husband is up," Mrs. Strake explained. "I just had this wire half an hour ago. No other word or warning."

Frank Strake threw his arm around Felicity at the station. "I knew you'd be here," he exclaimed. "How's your mother? How's every one? Oh, Jacob! Come here, Jacob! This is my little baby —my big baby now. Meet your father's friend, Jacob Gram."

The big man bowed. He had rather pale eyes. Felicity saw in that first glance; pale and deliberate. He was in his late thirties, possibly even forty.

"Jacob thought I'd run up from town to give your mother a little surprise. Ha, nothing like a little surprise."

And Felicity thought of how he still lied to himself, still kept up his painful pretense that Mrs. Strake was fond of him.

Yet how could he—how could she? Then keep up that show at the greeting his wife gave him when they arrived.

"Well, Frank, you've had one of your impulses, I see," she said as he entered, and then stopped to take a quick, unfriendly eye at the man her husband hastened to introduce to her.

There had been many ghastly Felicity looked at Jacob Gram. He was rather handsome, she saw now, and not uninteresting. But it was plain enough why her mother scorned him and did not even take the trouble to hide it. She was clearly furious at Frank Strake for bringing such a guest to the house.

But there was about him a suggestion of quiet power, of something inscrutable, arresting. This was a man who had his own way. And he was as unruffled by Mrs. Strake's scorn and as superbly confident as if he did not even suspect it.

Later, in the drawing room Felicity found herself alone with Gram.

Gram had lighted one of her father's long cigars. Through the smoke his eyes travelled over Felicity, very slowly.

Presently he began to talk About what he had been.

"But since then I have made a little money. I shall make more. There are many things to buy in the world."

He seemed about to say something further, when her father returned, his face flushed and angry. He muttered something to Gram and the two men went out together.

Instinct more than any evidence of her senses told Felicity that Jacob Gram was interested in her. In a way all his own, a way that she could not define.

As if her experiences with Haley Robinson and Nick Trenchard could not be enough for one day, suddenly Pate had thrust this new man into her life.

Later on, lying in bed, she thought about Robinson's address that she had written on a scrap of drawing-paper. What had she done with it?

She jumped out of bed, ran across the room, searched for it. It wasn't in her bag—it was gone. Then she pressed her fingers into the pocket of the silk sweater she had worn in the afternoon and found it with a sense of triumph.

She stood there wide-eyed at this revelation of herself. "I must be falling in love with him, I must be! I wouldn't have been so frightened at the fear of losing that address!"

She crossed the room, put out the light, and as she did so, she heard a dim sound just outside her door. She opened it. Down the hallway in the west wing she saw the small room her father called his study. The door was ajar, and Felicity heard her father's voice raised in anger.

"I'm not made of money, I tell you. I've had to cut into capital of late—you could ruin a Rothschild, let alone me."

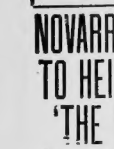
Then her mother's voice answered something, and once again her father broke out—

"Well, it'll pay you to be nice to Gram, I tell you. He could buy up half your swell friends right now. In another year you could run

STAGE SCREEN MUSIC

NOVARRO SOARS TO HEIGHTS IN 'THE PAGAN'

To see "The Pagan" is the next best thing to a good vacation. The next best thing to a South Sea Island trip. For this photoplay, now showing at Loew's State, is far and away the best South Sea picture yet filmed. Also, through a triple hookup of director and actors and the merit of a story out of the beaten track of the trite stuff that has been the rule in such productions, it makes first class screen entertainment.



Dorothy Janis

When W. S. Van Dyke directed "White Shadows in the South Seas," he properly came in for applause. Now he goes himself ten notches better, and turns out a red letter creation of which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer can be proud.

Ramon Novarro fans can see their hero at his best. His role of the half-native pagan owes one throughout this drama that has scenic lure, love, comedy, and an exquisitely sung theme song. It is Novarro himself who does the singing; it is a melody recurring at intervals where it stresses the haunting loveliness of the far-flung island and Novarro's singing voice will be a revelation to his admirers; it has splendid quality. Novarro has never acted any role better than this.

Dorothy Janis, who is part Indian, steals the feminine part of the show. This is the best thing she has done to date, the role of the girl for whose love Novarro has to fight. She has screen personality; and if it be her voice that is heard singing in unison with the hero she can be counted on to forge ahead. Renee Adoree is clever in her part as the bad girl of the piece; Donald Crisp is fine as the trader.

There is no imitation scenery in this film; it is easy to see that the picture was made in the South Seas, and the entire atmosphere of the play is superbly drawn from start to finish, and the end is as sweet a romance as the movies have evolved. It is worth repeating that Director Van Dyke has done a grand job.

On stage, Joe Rome and Lew Gaut in "When Extremes Meet" demonstrate some ludicrous dance novelties and comic antics. Peggy Taylor, Jack Randall and company appear in a sensational adagio offering. Miller and Lyles and other features complete the bill.

A LADY OF GOOD LINES

This is Mildred Myrnie who appears in Movietone's "Follies of 1929." Fox believes she will be come famous after film reaches public.

CROOK PLAY AT ORPHEUM

Roland West's thrilling all-talking production, "Alibi," a fast moving tale of the underworld, is the screen feature at Loew's Orpheum Theater this week. Melodrama, comedy, romance and musical extravaganza are blended skillfully into a picture of rare entertainment. "Alibi" was adapted from the stage play "Night Watch," and the members of the all-star cast are prominent players from the ranks of the stage and screen. Among them are Chester Morris, who gives a brilliant portrayal of a crook; Eleanor Griffith, in an excellent characterization of a policeman's daughter, Pat O'Malley, Mae Busch and others of note.

Eleanor Griffith

The Orpheum stage bill is led by Eddie Conrad and Marion Eddy, well known musical comedy and vaudeville entertainers.

The celebrated quick-change artist, "Doc" Baker, presents his latest protean novelty act entitled "At the Wishing Well." He is ably assisted by "Peaches" and "Poppy," clever singing and dancing pair. Alice Morley amuses with an interesting repertoire of character songs and impersonations.

Scott brothers and Vernon are seen in an hilarious skit, "Good Time Charlie," written by Allan Coogan. Herb Larimer and Marion Hudson open this week's vaudeville program with a comedy bicycle turn. Good features are included among the short movie subjects.

"FOX FOLLIES" FILM REVUE AT KEITH-ALBEE

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

Put it down in your movie log that the "Fox Movietone Follies of 1929" went over big. Your doctor can safely prescribe it as light fare, warranted to please.

If you are looking for a revue, this is it, and you may go to the Keith-Albee, where it is being screened this week, confident of getting a motion picture offering that has all the good revue essentials—pep, good music, trim show girls, lavish sets, plenty of speed, and laugh-provoking comedy. You are apt to be surprised that one celluloid product is so very, very fine. A revue could so easily flop, you know. But this one lands, and how!

There are other surprises. Sue Carol is the chief. Always a delight to the eye, she proves equally pleasing to the ear. She can sing and dance wonderously well; one number she does with David Rollins is a wow. We never dreamed she had so much meritorious stage talent; her beauty turns out to be far more than skin deep.

Miss Carol is going to make "The Breakaway" popular. Perhaps you've got the contagion already.

There are others, really too numerous to mention. But one must hand a bouquet to sterling old Stepin Fetchit. Again and again he appears, always able to get the laughs, always refreshing as an east wind after a hot spell.

The songs are bright and snappy. The color fantasy, "Pearl of Old Japan," has magic appeal, and the Fox Follies are withal a distinct advance in the development of the art of the speaking camera.

The Keith-Albee stage show moves in lively fashion. Frank Farron handles songs, stories and dancing equally well. Here is a revue "in person," a Webster and Marino product, starring Cameron and Thomasen, and Frances Cole. Other acts are Kirby and Duval, comedy: Barbier Sims and company, "Action Camera," and Emma Lindsay and Sultan.

Norumbega Park

"The Squintorium" is one of the free attractions at Norumbega Park. The Auburndale resort is now in full swing on its 334 season. "The Great Passmore," daring aerialist, whose feats of balancing atop a revolving globe proved a strong feature last week, has been held over for this week.

CROOK PLAY AT KEITH BILL

Not every day in every way, but at least every week, the programs at the New B. F. Keith Theater—incidentally, beginning June 15, the Keith week will start officially on Saturday—seem to grow better and better.

For instance, this week—when for a time you rock with hilarity during the long and novel "variety spasms" of Herman and Sammy Timberg and company; when for another time you thrill at the sight of two youngsters with their Dad, Carter De Haven of old, making good with a vengeance back of the footlights, and when, once more, you let all go for mirth under the spur of Mel Klee's blackface nonsensicalities.

Before long, someone inevitably will affix upon little Marjory De Haven, flapper daughter of her pleasantly remembered musical comedy father, the sobriquet "the Clara Bow of Vaudeville." Red-headed, vivacious, clever, startlingly pretty and reminiscent of Ann Pennington during her dances, Marjory has won the hearts of all audiences during these "first days" of three weeks' experience on the stage.

And her brother, perhaps three years older—it is a guess—but still not much more than 20, is destined inevitably to become one of a brother-and-sister team whose journey along the route of fame must include as much delightful mileage as that thus far enjoyed by the dancing Freddie and Adele Astaire. A handsome youth, gifted with his pretty sister, he also has been on the stage but two and a half weeks.

The Timberg varieties, in six cycles or "spasms," leave scarcely an opening for rest from laughter. There are music, dancing and comedy in the Timberg turn sufficient to fill the entire first half of the bill, an innovation in vaudeville.

Mel Klee, "The Prince of Wails," dwells in his monologue principally on the trials and tribulations of a married man, and never before have his quips been so sparkling.

For the balance of the bill, the Tom Davies Trio offer things dazing in their whirl about a small banked track on sputtering motorcycles—and there is, of course, the news reel.

Plimpton Quits

Sign Musical Stars For New Comedy Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

(Copyright, 1929, International Services.)

LOS ANGELES, June 4—Norma Terriss, who sang herself right into the spotlight as the original Magnolia in, "Show Boat," and Harold Murray, star of the Winter Garden, have been in Hollywood for some weeks. Everyone has been wondering just what Winfield Sheehan intended to do with these two young people whose voices and personalities made them two of the outstanding successes of Broadway last year.

Winnie has decided upon a musical comedy called, "Married in Hollywood," a snappy revue with plenty of songs and dances and Hollywood atmosphere. I reckon this is the same musical that De Sylva, Henderson and Brown, Fox's big musical writers went to Del Monte to write with Ethel Butler going along as director and advisor.

The Hollywood idea seems to growing. Why not publicize our own interesting community. Broadway has been done time and time again in the theater. What could be more appropriate than for Hollywood to be electrlighted for a change.

IF Hollywood should suddenly decide to hold a contest for the most popular stage actor in the movies my guess is that Edward Everett Horton would win first prize. Horton has done a great deal for the actors of the screen. He has encouraged them in their stage aspirations and has given many of them their first chance to speak lines. In fact, whenever there is any casting to be done for his stage plays he has given the preference to Hollywood's screen stars.

The next Horton picture, "The Aviator," is to be made in July at Warner Brothers studios with Patsy Ruth Miller as the leading lady and Walter Hiers as the comedy relief. Roy Del Ruth will direct. Pat, who is being married in September, is trying to get her film work out of the way before she becomes Mrs. Tay Garnett. These film weddings are always arranged with an idea to production schedule

LUCKY is the girl who has had any sort of a part in a New York play. She is bound to get a job in Hollywood sooner or later and a much bigger salary than she ever hoped to earn. Jeannette MacDonald, who played a part in "Yes, Yes Yvonne," in New York, is being brought to Hollywood in about two weeks to play opposite Maurice Chevalier in "Love Parade," the Guy Bolton operetta which Ernest Lubitsch will direct. While her name is a new one to the film colony, we are told she is well known on Broadway.

WILLIAM S. HART is bound to find a royal welcome when he returns to the screen. His type of western thrillers, with more time devoted to the girl, is due to return. Movies, like everything else, go in cycles, and now that the talkies are here many people will be interested in having an old-time western story given with microphone accompaniment.

It was interesting to know that Thelma Todd had been chosen as Hart's leading lady for his first picture because she is so much the type of Phyllis Haver, who played in his last picture in 1925. The talkies will probably bring back more of our old-timers, because a voice test is curious to hear the people they like speak.

SUMMER has come in Hollywood but that doesn't mean vacations for the film folk. The studios are working harder than ever. Joseph Cawthorne, well known stage comedian, is reporting every day at the Fairbanks Studio for tests in "The Taming of the Shrew." He plays one of the important parts.

Carmelita Geraghty, who has taken up her abode in the Chateau Elysee, Mrs. Nell Ince's swanky apartment house, may be located at the Tiffany-Stahl Studio, where she is playing a part in "The Sentinel Light." Eddie Kane, who is being kept busy playing theatrical managers, is now on his fifth "manager" in "Illusion." Fortune's for him that he bears a resemblance to Florenz Ziegfeld.

Tis said Esther Ralston is leaving Paramount at the expiration of her contract in November. She will probably free-lance unless she is signed by some of the companies who are willing to establish a training school for the silent players.

DAVID MIR, the first cousin of the late Czarina of Russia, has opened a beauty shop in Hollywood, which he is calling Czarina's Charm. The Mir beauty shop specializes in scientific facial massage. You are promised if you take these you will not need any plastic surgery or face lifting. Sounds very good for those who have time.

David Mir, and of course, that is not his real name, has given up his picture acting to devote his time to making Hollywood's beautiful. And incidentally David is really sad truly a cousin of the ill-fated Russian Empress, although for a long time he did not admit it.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Louise Dresser lunching at the Brown Derby. Kenneth Harlan at the Roosevelt greeting old friends. Mrs. Nell Ince entertaining her son, Bill, and his pretty fiancee at a bridal luncheon at the Montmartre. Noah Beery entertaining Crane Wilbur, George Scarborough, Eddie Brandstatter and Ann Harding, all in one day, at his trout farm.

Molly O'Day showing a shrinkage of six pounds after 10 days on the 16-day Mayo diet. Estelle Taylor taking a test at United Artists. Douglas Fairbanks rehearsing his lines while walking on the United Artists' lot. Gary Cooper and Lupe Velez denying their approaching marriage but admitting they are in love with each other. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Fourth Degree, K. C., to Meet Wednesday

Bishop Chevrus Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus, will hold its annual members' night tomorrow in the Chamber of Commerce building. Attendance will be limited to members.

Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock and the entertainment has been arranged. Faithful Navigator James J. Deles is chairman of the committee. Assisting are Faithful Capt. Edward A. Hurley, Edward J. Bulger, James J. Doherty, Michael M. Driscoll, Eugene L. Corbett, John F. Sheehan, James A. F. O'Neill, Albert J. Brennock, William O'Brien, Joseph P. Shea, Edward J. Connery and Michael J. McCarthy.

Church to Act on Pastor's Resignation

A special meeting of the parish society of the West Somerville Universalist Church, Cottage ave., has been called for tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock to act on the resignation of the pastor, the Rev. Alfred S Cole. The Rev. Mr. Cole, who has been pastor for six years, has accepted a call to Unitarian Universalist Church, Utica, N. Y.

SON OF ZELAYA ON STAGE AT MET

At the Metropolitan this week the management is presenting a pianist who is regarded as the outstanding artist of Central America—Don C. Alfonso Zelaya. He is the son of the late Gen. Zelaya, known as the Napoleon of Nicaragua, who refused President Roosevelt's demands to sell the United States right of way for a canal through his country.

The pianist is an American citizen, whose early contact with this country was at West Point. Upon his graduation and during the World War, he served with the military intelligence department. He speaks five languages.

The lure of music drew this soldier from the army. He has just returned from 14 weeks in Europe where he was headlined.

This artist has been described as "the press agent's dream," for he is adept at both jazz and classical music. In his act he gives his audience a little of both by way of contrast, but it is best when playing the classics.

If Zelaya had his way, American jazz would be "toned down" a great deal. He says England has gone wild over it, including the royal family. The French are also enthusiastic, but the Germans are shocked at the jazz.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

MAYOR WALKER BROADCASTS

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

IF THERE'S ANYONE who ought to know the recreational possibilities of New York city, it is that brown-haired, well-tailored burgomaster, the Honorable James J. Walker. And to show that his heart is in the right place, he's going to stand up in meeting tonight and tell all he knows about it. For those who think they have still something to learn about Manhattan, the sponsors of the Seconyland Sketches have prepared tonight's 7:30 broadcast introducing New Amsterdam's 99th and niftiest mayor.

BROADCASTS FROM DENVER

PAUL WHITEMAN broadcasts from Denver at 9 o'clock tonight. He's on his way to Hollywood, but he's filling his Columbia-Old Gold contract at way stations.

FAMILY SCHEDULE

EVEREADY programs start a series of domestic sketches based upon the table talk of "The Potters" at 9 o'clock tonight. The dialog is by J. P. McEvoy, newspaper man and author of "Show Girl."

R-K-O HOUR

THAT ELUSIVE DAMSEL, Helen Kane, late of the talkies, later of "Good Boy," latterly invisible, at present in variety, and soon once more in talkies, will let herself be heard over the radio in tonight's Radio-Keith-Orpheum broadcast. Many a listener would make a shrewd guess that she was "The Mystery Girl" in last week's R-K-O hour. Others in tonight's 11 o'clock broadcast are Baclanova, who's due in Boston next week; Winnie Lightner, Betty Reilly, Yates and Lawley, Lou Forman and the Palace Theater Ensemble.

Columbia Network Features

8:00 p. m.—Frederick William Wile. The Political Situation in Washington. WABC, WNAC, WEAN, etc.
8:15 p. m.—U. S. Navy Band. WABC, WNAC, WEAN, etc.
9:00 p. m.—Old Gold, Paul Whiteman Hour. Nation-wide hookup. Paul Whiteman and his famous orchestra. WABC, WNAC, WEAN, etc.
10:00 p. m.—Voice of Columbia. A wide range of music, an orchestra and soloists. WABC, WNAC, WEAN, etc.
11:00 p. m.—Curtiss Candy Hour. Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadian Orchestra. WABC, WNAC, WEAN, etc.

STATE MEDICS HERE JUNE 10 FOR SESSIONS

More than 700 physicians from all parts of the state are expected to attend the 118th anniversary session of the Massachusetts Medical Society at Copley Plaza, June 10, 11 and 12.

Except for the Monday morning hospital clinics and the luncheons at the large hospitals, all the activities of the convention take place at the hotel. The latter include Peter Bent Brigham, Carney, Boston City, New England Deaconess, Massachusetts Homeopathic, Massachusetts General and Palmer Memorial hospitals will offer clinical programs.

The committee in charge will welcome many visiting fellows from neighboring state societies. Able speakers will address the various meetings. Monday evening will be for recreation. The society will hold an informal dinner and entertainment in the ballroom. The annual dinner will be Tuesday evening, followed by the Shattuck lecture. The annual meeting is Wednesday morning, June 12.

Dr. John M. Birnie of Springfield is president. Vice-president, Dr. Peer P. Johnson of Beverly.

Here's REAL Superman

A FLYING PILOT READY FOR HIGH ALTITUDES

Nietzsche talked about the superman. He thought a few great men would rule all the others, and described his superman going about the world accompanied by a lion, a serpent and an eagle.

Nietzsche died insane, and the superman that he expected will not appear.

But a super RACE will appear.

This man in his aeroplane goes up above the kind of air that a normal human being can breathe. Lieutenant J. A. Macready, as he is here shown in his high flying costume, would not be recognized by his own mother or anybody else's mother.

The unbreathable air of the upper heights is shut out by a mask. Leather and fur protect him from the cold. A pipe running from his nostrils to a tank supplies his lungs with the oxygen that they must have. His blood must be kept in condition and his heart kept going.

A special breathing apparatus, devised under compulsion during the war to save millions from choking gas, is now made useful in high altitude flying, and in the work of firemen exposed to gases, ammonia fumes, etc., and for miners in gas-filled mines.

Many useful things have begun in brutal war, including very likely the development of the use of iron itself. Man welcomed it because it was good for killing. Now he uses it for buildings, houses, automobiles, ploughs and typewriters.

One Investor, Annoyed

There Are Millions Like Him

Many who have permitted themselves to make investments in American industrial and other securities, without first obtaining permission from the members of the Federal Reserve Board, will be interested in extracts printed below, from a letter written by one of our readers.

The Federal Reserve Board was established, it was SUPPOSED, to maintain and equalize credit, and especially to avoid panic.

By whose order, and for whose speculative profit is not known, but for some mysterious and probably EXCELLENT reason, that Federal Reserve Board has been transformed into a club to coerce speculators, tell them when they may and may not buy, and in general to flatten out the prices of securities that SOMEBODY for SOME reason thinks are too high.

A letter from our reader, Mr. A. G. B., of Los Angeles, will strike a sympathetic note in many minds:

To the Editor:

Dear Sir: Tens of thousands of people like myself have invested conservatively in our country's best securities. Why all this propaganda that prices are too high and "the bottom is going to fall out," etc.? It only goes to scare, not the speculators, but good, hard-working citizens. They sell their good securities only later to see that the sacrifices which they sold have greatly advanced in market value. This sort of thing has been going on now for several months, thanks to the "best minds" of the Federal Reserve Board. Do they want to bring on a panic? Mr. Hoover is "pulling a Coolidge" in remaining silent while the rights of more than 20,000,000 investors are disregarded by the Reserve Board.

If there comes a time in this country of ours when some governmentally constituted board can determine what sort of investments our citizens must make, then I state we are headed for a real curtailment of our liberties. Do they wish to bring on a state of anarchy or the sacrifices which they sold have greatly advanced in market value. This sort of thing has been going on now for several months, thanks to the "best minds" of the Federal Reserve Board. Do they want to bring on a panic? Mr. Hoover is "pulling a Coolidge" in remaining silent while the rights of

Very truly yours,
A. G. B.

Hoover's English

Herbert Hoover has been known to rewrite the text of a purely friendly fifty-word greeting seven times before releasing it to the public.

Some professional writers have not yet learned how to revise a piece of writing one time, let alone seven times. They retain the childish notion of amateurs that revision "spoils spontaneity."

Those New Police Uniforms

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 4—No section of New York has been so extravagantly publicized lately as the Harlem Black Belt. It has been whooped up in a half dozen plays and as many books. Cabaret resorts attract hordes of down town slummers, and Strivers Row is the scene of studio soirees attended by whites.

Harlem in recent years has given the stage Florence Mills, Bill Robinson, Adelaide Hall and others and sent Josephine Baker, a dusky singer, to triumph in Paris and Paul Robeson in London. Jules Bledsoe and Roland Hayes have become singularly conspicuous in singing roles.

Two currently successful plays and three big selling novels were authored by negroes. From such surface indications, the negro would appear to have attained a striking stage of artistic development, yet those who know say the majority in Harlem face economic disaster.

Judging from the colorful flow on Lenox ave., the district has never before displayed such fine feathers. The gaudy sheiks and flashily dressed brown skins are promiscuous in every block. But these, it would seem, are representative of only a favored few. Many doors have closed to colored workers.

Except on Pullman trains, there are few places for the colored maid, and the colored nurse has a similar struggle. Hair dressing and manicure parlors, once an occupational high spot, now are using only white girls, chiefly Scandinavians. Wash room attendants are also mostly white.

Most hotels long ago discarded the colored waiter in favor of foreign importations. This also applies to chefs. And there are only a handful of colored valets and butlers, and just a straggling few footmen, coachmen, yardmen and chauffeurs.

First-class apartment houses are no longer employing colored elevator operators, and apartment houses that do employ chiefly the West Indian negroes, who are far from popular in Harlem. Posts of doormen and building superintendents are also seldom held by colored folk.

Fortunate gentlemen who slip off to Bar Harbor and other natty nooks over week-ends for golfing in the sunshine and canoeing in the moonlight usually land at Grand Central Monday morning. To the red caps they are "gliders"—a colloquialism for gliding the palm. They are reputed the most extravagant of all tippers.

Smart hair dressing and beauty parlors now ask patrons to make engagements at least a week in advance. In spite of 200 new salons opening in the metropolitan district last year, the business has grown out of bound. Hair dressers on liners in port are able to work full time. The big factor in the increase of trade is the demand for beauty treatments. Women who used to have "facials" once a week often made a daily visit. And so far as one can notice homely women remain homely.

Upper Broadway is acquiring all the chop suey, dance hall, souvenir shop and vaudeville glitter of the lower strip and is to have two legitimate theaters above 72d st. playing first class attractions.

There is no optimism like that of the man with thinning hair for the barber's newest restorer. Only this morning I hurried home from a barber shop, fearing the new growth would push off my hat along the sidewalk.

And it just percolated while writing this that the barber who again raised such high hopes had a head suggesting a peeled onion.

Mr. Whalen's traffic plan may be the billiards. Everybody sings its praise. But it took me exactly 42 minutes by clock to travel from 66th and Madison ave. to a theater on West 45th st. the other night, so Mr. Whalen may have his ides—with love and kisses.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

JOHN D. has just established a precedent that we would all like to trail.

He has bought a town to get rid of his neighbors.

John owns one of those mail-order wigwams up at Pocantico Hills. There is no use telling you the exact location because you will never get an invitation.

Looking out of his nursery window one day, John D. piped a town and asked his athletic instructor the name of it. He was told that it was Eastview.

You have all heard those neighborly arguments in which Mr. La Gook shakes his fist at Mr. Lugg and yells:

"I can buy and sell you."

Mr. Lugg waggles a different fist at La Gook and answers:

"I don't have to sell you. I can buy and keep you."

Meaning that Lugg is the financial superior of La Gook. Which is always good for another and more exclusive argument.

For almost 40 years we have been listening to neighbors threatening to foreclose imaginary mortgages on one another.

We have never seen it happen. But it makes a splendid thesis for a backyard forum.

Now we know that a philanthrophist like John D. never bothered with his neighbors.

But even a friendly neighbor at his best is ofttimes a mote in the syrup and a beam in the tooth.

Eastview is the town in which old Mrs. Frunk lived many years ago as the crow flies. She was the lady who had the little boys arrested for swimming in the buff.

While the trial was stepping along in the meshes of the law the village judge discovered that the pond where the little boys swam was almost two miles away from the rural chalet of Mrs. Frunk.

"Why, Mrs. Frunk," said the judge, "even though these lads swam naked, I don't see how it can annoy you."

Mrs. Frunk snapped, "I got a spy glass."

Mrs. Frunk has been dead, in, these many years, and she is in a place where the little angels do their flying two miles away.

But she is an example of the kind of neighbors you get rid of when you buy a whole town. We know that Los Angeles would like John D. to live in their town and buy San Francisco because an old lady in San Francisco has a spy glass.

The same is true of New York and Philadelphia, Dallas and Fort Worth, Minneapolis and St. Paul, Buffalo and Rochester and thousands of cities which are paired off as widows.

Mrs. Solomon Says—

By HELEN ROWLAND

MY DAUGHTER, in his heart every man is an Adventurer—and every damsel is a new and enchanting adventure upon the uncharted Sea of Experience.

Her eyes are as mysterious waters, wherein he floateth, seeking unknown thoughts and thrilling surprises.

Her lips are coral shores which lure him with the charm of the undiscovered and the uncertain.

Her mind is as a book of travel which holdeth his imagination spellbound from chapter to chapter.

And how doth he know that her heart may not prove to be the Land of Eternal Enchantment, which he seeketh all his days?

Wherefore then dost thou doubt a man's word when he saith, "I have never loved like THIS before!"

For unto him each love is a new experiment and a quest wherein he seeketh the Golden Girl.

Yet Peary made not more voyages in search of the Pole than a man maketh in search of his Ideal Love.

For, alas, how oft is his Ship of Dreams wrecked upon the shoals of Flirtation and grounded upon the reefs of Misunderstanding.

How oft is it becalmed in the shadows of the "petting party," so that he saith in his heart:

"Alas, all loves are as one love—and that one deadly!

"One damsel is as disappointing as another; one kiss is as insipid as another; one thrill dieth as quickly as another.

"One damsel's perfume is like unto another's; one damsel's words are as foolish as another's, and one damsel's designs are as deep as another's.

"Verily, from the introduction to the last kiss, their eyes are upon the altar, the white ribbons, the rice and the honeymoon journey!

"And there is nothing NEW under the sun!"

Go to! As a novel wherein thou readest the last chapter first, so is a damsel who is easily kissed.

As a farmhouse dinner, the courses whereof are served all at once, so is a FRANK damsel that "telleth everything" concerning herself.

As harmless as an open cellar-door in broad daylight, so is a damsel that doeth her own wooing.

For verily, Love is a voyage of discovery; and only so long as a woman keepeth a man roaming and dreaming and constantly surprised, is she the Land of His Heart's Desire.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

LILAC hedges budding, daffodils all out, bees already buzzing in the apple trees—

And here, stepping lightly over the glistening grass, hand in hand with Spring, comes Youth, with its nose in the air and its feathers all squirk! Listen to its spokeswoman —Dorothe.

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I'm sending my puzzle to you and I hope you can help. You see, there's something wrong with me and I have often wondered if I am a little mad.

I'm 17 and I like parties, dancing, necking and most all the things other people do but my pleasure is always being spoiled for me because in the midst of it the thought will come crashing down—what's the use? How futile it all is! Then instantly all my enthusiasm is gone and I feel helpless.

I see people rushing back and forth, and call them fools for bothering, when all the time, perhaps, I myself may be the fool. It's hard, Elsie, to be so young and to know that people never mean what they say—to know that they hide their real selves from you under a veneer. I have only two that I can really call my friends—a girl and a boy—but though I have known them both for many years I dare not study them for fear that if I probe too far they will turn out to be like the others.

That's one big trouble—the shallowness of people. Another is that I can find no career or work to interest me. I'm too restless. I have been to six schools since I graduated from grammar, three years ago, leaving each as soon as I became accustomed to it. I can't keep on doing the same thing day after day—the monotony is unbearable. What does one do in a case like this?

DOROTHE FLANNERY,
No. 102 Garfield place, Brooklyn.

"What does one do in a case like this?"

One grows, my dear.

One grows until one develops a perspective, or has one thrust upon the altar, the white ribbons, the rice and the honeymoon journey!

"And there is nothing NEW under the sun!"

Go to! As a novel wherein thou readest the last chapter first, so is a damsel who is easily kissed.

As a farmhouse dinner, the courses whereof are served all at once, so is a FRANK damsel that "telleth everything" concerning herself.

As harmless as an open cellar-door in broad daylight, so is a damsel that doeth her own wooing.

SELAH!

It is impossible to read properly without using all one's engine-power, and I am sympathizing with you heartily. For, although you'll flout the idea, I and millions of other people have felt exactly as you are feeling. There's nothing unique in you or your case. We all decide at seventeen that every one is a shallow-brained cheat and hypocrite—except us. We all conclude that existence is futile because we can't understand it. And we all yearn to flit from one activity to another because "monotony is unbearable." But, fortunately, most of us are restrained by necessity and wise parents from following our fool urges.

All of which must prove most depressing to your young egotism, but you're a smart kid, Dorothe, and I'm not going to try to bunko you with a lot of taffy talk. These are facts—face them. I admit that it's disappointing to find that humanity is such a mess—but you won't act so snooty about it when you realize that you're as messy as the rest.

You, of course, give your personal messiness ritzier titles than you give the other fellow's. You call your dislike of routine and work "restlessness" and you call his "laziness." This comforting habit will undoubtedly continue for the rest of your life, as it does with all of us, but it will never fool any one but yourself.

As for people hiding themselves under a veneer—some day you'll be most grateful for that, for you'll be needing veneer yourself in wholesale lots.

Is life futile? That depends. It's going to be mighty futile for you, little partner, unless you snap out of your present attitude pronto. Life will be what you make it.

If you put into it the discontent, conceit, suspicion, impatience and ignorance which your present program is engendering you'll certainly reap futility. But if you put into life the "makings" of success and happiness—if you put into it the service of trained hands and minds and a tempered spirit—you'll reap rich harvest.

But, remember, it's all up to you. Life isn't going to make any special arrangements or exemptions for Dorothe Flannery. For a little while your parents may be able to pay your way in spite of your foolishness, but sooner or later you'll have to stand on your own. And if you skid then—why, it's just your bad luck!
